Did Princess Lose Heart?

Society Says Prince Henry Prime Suitor

ROME (AP) — Princess Margaret bade a private farewell to her Italian prince Saturday, then flew off to Paris in a pout. The story is that mama unbraid her for staying too long at the prince's villa.

This one jarring note did not sour the hearts-and-flowers chorus in the Rome press. The newspapers said she was leaving her heart behind in custody of Prince Henry of Hesse, handsome and 31. One paper said you could expect an engagement announcement before too long.

The prince did not see Princess Margaret and Queen Mother Elizabeth off at the airport.

May Meet in Paris
The more romantic Roman newspapers said the prince, the 23-year-old British princess' almost constant companion on her gay, five-day holiday in Rome, might follow her to Paris. If he does he'll have to hurry. She leaves Paris Monday for London.

The last day in Rome for the princess began on hardly a romantic note. She and her mother went off to some stables outside Rome to see the Italian race horse, Ribot. Prince Henry wasn't in sight.

The queen mother and the princess left in separate automobiles. Newsmen trailing along behind were stopped for five minutes by police. When their cars caught up again, they found the queen mother riding ahead. They followed to the British Embassy, where the queen mother and her daughter stayed during the visit. Still no Margaret. Police in the royal escort were questioned.

"She went off to see a friend," one of them said.

What friend? Prince Henry, a police official finally acknowledged.

Lengthens Stay

The story from here on to the airport, obtained from Embassy and police sources, is that Princess Margaret showed up with her police escort at the prince's villa for luncheon. One hour lengthened into two. Back at the British Embassy the queen mother was getting nervous. Finally she sent a lady-in-waiting to fetch the princess.

Princess Margaret arrived at the Embassy only an hour before the plane for Paris was to leave. She was flushed and seemed radiantly happy.

Once inside, however, the queen mother reprimanded her for staying too long at the villa with time for departure so near.

NIKITA IS ENJOYING SUBLIME HEALTH

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev is in such good health that everyone else should be envious, a government spokesman declared Saturday.

The comment was in answer to a story published abroad saying Khrushchev had a series of spells of unconsciousness late in March and early in April.

The spokesman said Khrushchev will return to Moscow before May Day from the Black Sea resort where he is resting.

Khrushchev Says Ike's Nuclear Plan Unworkable

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev says President Eisenhower's plan to halt nuclear tests at altitudes up to 30 miles "will not solve the problem." People would be justified in regarding such a ban, alone, "an unfair deal," he added.

Without using words flatly rejecting Eisenhower's proposal of April 13, Khrushchev said the Soviet Union would be satisfied only with an agreement to ban nuclear tests anywhere.

In fact, Khrushchev said he thought "it is quite possible to find such a solution to the problem of ending tests, on the basis of your proposals and ours, as would meet the interests of the nuclear nations as well as those of all the other countries."

Khrushchev said he was glad to note that the President in his letter "also holds the view that the talks must not be allowed to fail." The Soviet Premier's entire letter was moderate in tone.

League Reports Steady Progress For U.S. Negroes

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Urban League reported Saturday that there has been steady progress in fitting Negroes into the economic life of the nation's cities.

The Urban League, which concentrates on improving Negroes' job opportunities and living conditions, reported achievements in housing, vocational guidance, employment and other fields for the years 1956, 1957 and 1958.

Specific gains listed by the league included employment of Negroes in white collar jobs with airlines; licensing of Negro master plumbers in Baltimore, and a start on integration in fire departments in Tulsa, Okla., and Gary, Ind.

Establishment of a new health center for the Negro community of Los Angeles, and building of a sewer system for the Negro section of Fort Wayne, Ind., also were singled out in the report.

Injured Youths Lie Overnight On Hillside

FREEMONT, Ill. (AP) — Five youths, all in critical condition, lay unconscious in a hospital Saturday night, almost 24 hours after their auto tumbled down a hillside 14 miles south of Freeport.

The injured youths were Emerson Trampel, 16; Polo; Robert Trampel, 19; Gary Robinson, 19; Robert Richards, 20; and Richards' brother, Gilbert, all of Oregon.

The youths were seen at 11:30 p.m. Friday as they drove away from a hamburger stand about two miles from the crash scene. Authorities said it probably was only minutes later than the car missed a curve, sailed 60 feet in the air and tumbled 300 feet down a slope.

The boys, all thrown from the auto, lay unconscious on the hillside until they were discovered about 6 a.m. Saturday.

HAZARD, Ky. (AP) — Fire labeled as arson, knocked out a nonunion coal operation Saturday, while National Guard motorcycles converged on the center of violence in eastern Kentucky's strike-bound coal fields.

State police blamed the $200,000 fire at the Ashio Coal Co. on arsonists.

Some 24 hours earlier 450 pickets had threatened to take over the same plant—causing Gov. A. B. Chandler to send in the guardsmen.

Only advance units of the four battalions moving in had arrived when the fire broke out. But vehicles carrying the rest of the 2,000 troops wound their way into the hill country during the day.

Their arrival brought little apparent reaction. But a bystander here told Associated Press photographer H. B. Little: "Look at the kids they're sending in here to handle a bunch of unhappy men. Somebody's going to get hurt before this thing is over."

Ocean Ships Ply Seaway

Great Lakes Now Another World Port

MONTREAL (AP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway, a giant system of canals and locks that reaches to the Great Lakes and the heart of North America, was opened Saturday to ships from the seven seas.

The 475-million-dollar project had been debated by the U. S. and Canadian governments for 50 years, then was completed by 15,000 workers in five years.

The 5,678-ton Canadian ice-breaker D'Iberville, a veteran of the Arctic, carrying officials, Canadian parliamentarians, U. S. senators and congressmen and newsmen, raised anchor shortly after 8 a.m. and moved into the seaway entrance at Montreal's Jacques Cartier Bridge. The D'Iberville was not needed to crack ice, for there wasn't enough to bother.

She led at a stately pace a 35-mile-long queue of 55 ocean-going ships, flying the flags of many countries, and 23 canalliers.

Car horns honked, ships blew their whistles, and hundreds of onlookers waved as the D'Iberville inched into the St. Lambert dock, the first of seven that will lift the convoy a total of 224 feet to the level of Lake Ontario.

The first ocean ship to enter the canal was the Dutch freighter, Prins Willem George Frederik.

At Ogdensburg, N. Y., at the western end of the Massena Locks another flotilla of 33 Canadian cargo ships started their east-bound passage of the seaway.

There were no formal ceremonies to mark the opening of traffic to Great Lakes ports as far as 2,400 miles inland. The formal dedication will be June 26 when President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II of Britain will participate.

Another Great Sea
The seaway, a joint U. S. Canadian venture, opens a new era for ports ringing the five Great Lakes, which are in effect transformed into another of the world's great seas. Eighty per cent of the world's shipping now can reach these ports.

Before the seaway they were blocked by 21 small, rock-lined locks with wooden gates which lifted or lowered ships of less than 250-foot length to the water levels between Montreal and Lake Ontario.

The old locks, some built 50 years ago, took the ships around a series of rapids in the St. Lawrence River. Now the deep, broad seaway, with its big canyon-like locks, will take ships up to 730 feet long carrying 25,000 tons of cargo. The old canal could take ships only up to 14-foot draft, and very few ocean-going vessels could pass.

Herter Pushes Plans For Big Four Talks

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—Christian A. Herter was reported resolved Saturday to push for a united Western front this week at his first international conference as secretary of state.

At the same time, Herter and Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, agreed there is no point now in including members of Congress in the U.S. delegation to the East-West German meeting on the German crisis starting May 11.

The State Department said that after an informal discussion, Herter and Fulbright had left the door open to possible congressional attendance at a later stage if it then seemed desirable.

Herter arranged to leave for Paris Monday afternoon with a plane full of advisers.

Although Herter has been abroad twice before during his two years as No. 2 man in the State Department and has had extensive international experience, the forthcoming negotiations promise to tax to the utmost the mettle of the successor to John Foster Dulles.

The Paris conference, slated to start April 29, will bring together the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany. The four powers are working on proposals to put to the Soviets at the Geneva parity.

The Reds touched off the current crisis by threatening to oust the Western powers from West Berlin. After intensive preparatory talks among state officials which ended in London last Thursday, the Western Allies still had not ironed out differing views on how to proceed in bargaining with the Soviet Union.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—One hundred two passengers had brief frights as their two Capital Airlines landed Friday night at Grand Rapids. One plane came down on a blown tire; the other blew its four main tires in landing.

The plane that landed safely on four of its five tires carried 54 passengers. The one that blew out all four main tires carried 48.

No one was hurt in either landing, which occurred about three hours apart and neither plane was damaged.

Osteopaths Worry Over Increased Medical Costs

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—The president of the American Osteopathic Assn. said Saturday night high costs are thwarting scientific advances in health care.

Dr. George W. Northup of Morristown, N. J., told the annual meeting of the Illinois Osteopathic Assn.:

"Many patients avoid seeking preventive medical care because they fear expensive hospitalization. The recovery of others from surgery or illness is hindered by their worries about payment of doctor and hospital bills."

He suggested community conferences be held on the rising costs of medical and hospital care.

Dr. Stanley J. Adamson of Rockford was installed as the IOA president at the annual banquet.

Other officers are Dr. Louise W. Astell, Champaign, president-elect; Dr. George F. Marjan, Palos Heights, first vice president; and Dr. Morgan Sours, Bloomington, second vice president.

Harvard U. Gives Rousing Welcome To Fidel Castro

BOSTON (AP) — There is no freedom if a man is hungry, Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Saturday night.

Castro spoke for half an hour before a crowd estimated at more than 10,000 outside Dillon Field House in the athletic area of Harvard University.

All of the 7,500 seats were taken and additional thousands stood on the fringes for Castro's appearance, sponsored by the Harvard Law Forum.

Castro told his audience, of whom the majority were students, he was sorry his English was not better, but he said when he was in school "and studying English as perhaps you now study Spanish, I was not a very good student."

Castro said he accepted the invitation to speak here so he could "clear up some of the confusion about our revolution."

"We need better understanding of the countries in Latin America," he said.

"Freedom is impossible if men do not have personal rights. There is no freedom if a man cannot read or write and there is no freedom without a free press. A man does not feel free if he is hungry."

"There are many tyrannies, not only political, but there are the tyrannies of hunger, of the inability to read or write," he said.

Castro said the United States has 400 universities and it has hospitals and medical care for all the people and he said these are the things for which Cuba and other Latin American countries are striving.

Mississippi Terrorists Drag Negro Prisoner From Prison — Vanish

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Gun-wielding terrorists — faces masked and hands gloved — dragged a screaming Negro who was charged with raping a white woman from his jail cell Saturday. They vanished into the dark and wooded hills of southern Mississippi.

The night raiders left little for hurrying FBI agents to pin a search on, and a sheriff's posse failed to uncover a trace of the mob and its victim.

Officials had little hope for survival of the victim, Mack Charles Parker, 23, a truck driver in this prosperous timber, cattle and tung oil town about 100 miles south of Jackson, the state capital.

Fellow Negro prisoners, still nervous from the brutal raid, described the scene.

A raider shouted at the beaten, bloody victim: "Why did you do it?"

"I didn't do it," screamed Parker.

In minutes, Parker began saying other people had done it and naming them. Then he pointed to one of his fellow Negro prisoners.

"He did it," he said.

The raiders dragged Parker from the building by his heels, his head bumping from steel tread to steel tread of the stairs. Blood flicked about marked progress of the party, a bloody handprint on the door step giving the last trace of Parker, who screamed and struggled as the getaway cars sped away.

Parker was charged with raping a 24-year-old white woman from Petal, Miss., in adjoining Forrest County, in the presence of her five-year-old daughter last February. His trial was to have started Monday.

Sheriff W. O. Moody of Pearl River County said he believed the vigilantes either had taken Parker from the area or dumped him into some water.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover quickly ordered a special team of agents into Poplarville. Two arrived in midmorning.

The posse scoured the wooded lands and the red clay hills.

Parker was taken from the un-

The Bullpup Goes To Sea 1st Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy sent its first combat-ready air-to-surface missile, the Bullpup, to sea Saturday as part of the regular armament.

The first operational missiles were aboard the carrier Lexington as that ship sailed from Alameda, Calif., for duty in Far East waters.

The missiles will be carried by the F4B Fury aircraft, with each plane totting five missiles.

The missile, which is supersonic, is controlled by the plane's pilot. Two flares enable him to track it visually and steer it until it hits the target. Weighing about 540 pounds, including a 250-pound nonatomic warhead, the Bullpup is intended for use in precision attack against small targets such as tanks, truck convoys, pillboxes and bridges.

ORDER DOWRY CUT
NEW DELHI (AP) — The big bridal dowry would be an offense punishable by up to 6 months in jail and/or $1,000 (equivalent) fine under a new bill in India's parliament. It would let a bride be given jewels and clothing to the value of $420.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois Democratic legislators, already taking a dim view of Gov. Stratton's proposed half cent sales tax hike for education, buckled down this week to study of a program of their own.

The Democratic House majority's policy committee, dedicated to forming positive planks rather than criticism only of the Republican administration, slated appointment of seven subcommittees to ponder specific budget areas, including taxes and education.

The Democrats have informally rejected the half cent sales tax hike Stratton recommended for boosting common school aid from $106 to $110 million dollars biennium. However, lawmakers generally agreed that some such increase in school aid was needed.

Termed Hard On Poor
Democratic criticism of the sales tax was that the levy fell hardest on the poorer man. Republicans, who control the Senate, said the sales tax had weathered constitutional questions while the corporation taxes favored by the Democrats were uncertain to stand such tests.

Still on a two-days schedule weekly, the Assembly seemed unlikely to make much headway on major programs. However, a start was looked for on the anticipated introductions of multimillion dol-

First Major Law Since Taft-Hartley

By JOE F. KANE
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The Senate Saturday passed by an overwhelming 90-1 margin the Kennedy labor regulation bill aimed at routing racketeers and thugs from unions.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) cast the lone negative vote.

Passage came a few hours after approval of a toned-down substitute for the McClellan "bill of rights" amendment.

The bill sponsored by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) now goes to the House, where similar legislation died last year. But its backers there said it has a better chance this session. House hearings on bills along the same line already are under way.

The similar bill which the Senate passed last year was sponsored by Kennedy and former Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.). After it was killed in the House, Republicans and Democrats sought during the succeeding months of the political campaign to place on each other the blame for its death.

First Since 1947
The measure passed Saturday makes the most extensive changes in the Taft-Hartley law since that act passed in 1947.

Some of these changes are strongly desired by organized labor. The AFL-CIO had said it would fight the measure if the changes were not retained.

The Senate adopted 35 amendments and defeated 15 in 9 days of floor debate.

Kennedy succeeded in fighting off all major amendments he opposed head-on except the bill of rights proposal in its original form.

This amendment, offered by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate Labor-Management Committee, was put in Wednesday by a dramatic 47-46 vote.

But the provision was considerably toned down Saturday by adoption of a substitute which Kennedy said protected the operating procedures of unions, but still offered guarantees of basic rights to union members. McClellan also approved the substitute.

Kennedy leads the main thrust of the argument in turning back two major McClellan amendments—to write into the bill sharp provisions aimed at blackmail and organizational picketing and at secondary boycotts.

The Eisenhower administration had insisted that any effective bill must contain provisions on these points.

Kennedy contended that the two McClellan proposals would directly hurt legitimate labor interests. But McClellan said the amendments were needed because the influence of such men as Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was spreading in the labor movement.

"Fails To Meet . . ."
Sen. Goldwater told the Senate he was voting against the bill because he said it failed to meet conditions exposed by McClellan's Senate racks committee.

The great bulk of the bill was not disturbed in the floor debate.

The principal antiracketeering provisions would require unions to make detailed financial reports which would be open to public inspection; set up procedures for fair elections with secret ballots; and a limitation on terms of officers; ban persons convicted of serious crimes from serving as union officials for prescribed periods; control trusteeships by international unions over locals and limit their duration; require employers to make public reports on their activities designed to influence labor disputes through middlemen and in other ways, and fix severe criminal penalties for false reporting and other violations of provisions of the bill.

Memo To Vacation Drivers: Be Prepared For Detours

BY JERRY BENNETT WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Be prepared to drive over a lot of bumpy, dusty roads on your summer vacation.

Highway construction is going on at a record pace throughout the nation as workers strive to add 3,000 miles this year to the completed 6,000 miles of the coast-to-coast federal-state highway system. This means that almost anywhere you travel, you're likely to, run into detours.

Highway engineers warn that driving on temporary routes calls for observing special safety procedures. A list of detour driving rules urges motorists to:

Remember that road signs marked "Slow Down," "Road Closed," "Danger—Men and Equipment Working," mean exactly what they say. Watch out for barricades and flaming smudge pots used for night markers. Many accidents are caused by hitting them.

Heed the signals of the flagman, and don't get impatient if he makes you wait. He knows the road conditions ahead, what sort of construction work is going on and is trying to prevent you from having an accident.

Look out for heavy road building equipment especially when trying to pass it. The driver may have a blind spot on your side.

Concentrate on driving, not on the construction activities. Safety experts warn that the biggest hazard of traveling on detour routes is the drivers' curiosity.

Drive slowly. Traveling at high speeds through construction zones is hazardous, damages your tires and auto and is uncomfortable to your passengers.

Roadbuilders, however, hope that new stretches of super roads will soothe the frayed nerves and irritable tempers caused by the detours.

Since last year's vacation season, high-speed toll roads, freeways, and super highways have been completed in Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, Virginia, North Dakota, Washington and California. New expressways have been completed in 10 major cities to relieve bumper-to-bumper traffic snarls, according to the 1959 edition of the Parade Turnpike Guide.

By the 1970s, these roads will be linked with others in a 41,000-mile highway system that will enable vacationers to drive from coast to coast and from border to border without a stoplight.

The following sections of the new nation-wide highways system are expected to be completed late this year or in 1960:

Interstate 87, "The Northway," which will extend north from Albany, N. Y., to Montreal, Canada.

Two Beardstown Men Held For Auto Tire Theft

CANTON, Ill. (AP)—Any report on police activity in Fulton County and environs Friday would read like a road map.

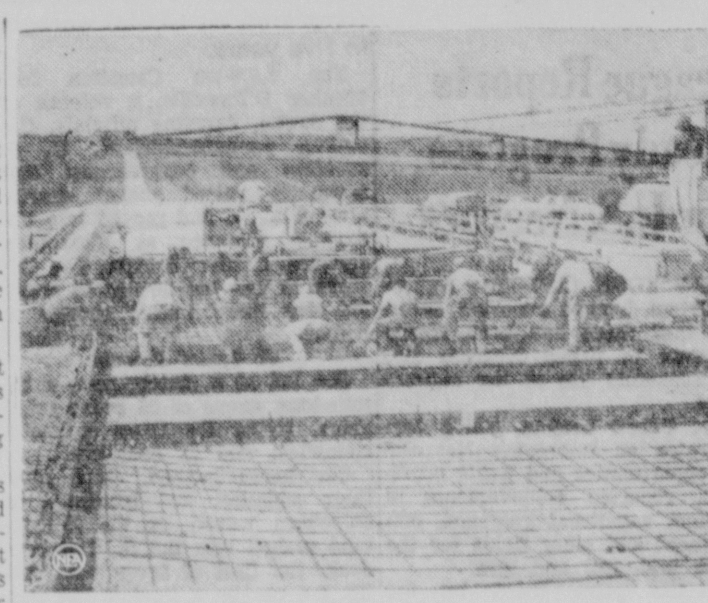

First, a roadblock was set up in Havana. The purpose was to catch burglars who broke into a Lewistown tavern, took $20 from the cash register and an undisclosed amount from a safe.

At 3 a. m. Richard Graham and Ronald Lee Camp were stopped at the barrier, questioned and released. Police said they had three extra automobile tires.

At 8:10 a. m. a service station in St. David notified the sheriff's office that burglars had made off with three auto tires during the night.

A check was made and Graham and Camp were picked up in their home town. Beardstown. Sheriff Mig Ellsworth questioned the two men and said they admitted the St. David service station break-in but denied the Lewistown tavern burglary.

They were held, without immediate charge, at Beardstown.

RECORD PACE OF ROAD BUILDING this year means motorists will face a lot of detours on summer driving trips, but there are some new super roads to compensate.

Interstate 75, a multi-lane stretch paved from the Florida state line through Georgia to the Tennessee line.

Niagara section of the New York Thruway, a 21-mile strip connecting Buffalo, N.Y., and Niagara Falls.

Interstate 90 which will provide a high-speed scenic route through Washington's Cascade Mountains.

The interstate system will use even numbers to designate the east-west routes and odd numbers for highways heading north and south. Road builders explain, however, that so far only a limited number of the new signs have been erected. Thus, travelers should still rely on the old U. S. route numbers.

Safety experts urge motorists to guard against being lulled into a sense of false security and becoming drowsy while driving on the new roads. This condition, called highway hypnosis, is caused by driving at unvarying speeds on long, straight stretches of roads.

Safety officials say that drivers should avoid monotony by glancing occasionally at the roadside, instrument panel and rearview mirror; turning on the radio and singing. They also recommend a break after driving the first 200 miles followed by regular 100-mile rest stops.

Her brother, Dr. Watson Gailey of Bloomington, died a few months ago.

The Gailey family were former Ashland residents.

Jacksonville Women Speak In Calhoun

HARDIN, Ill.—Mrs. Lyle Davis of Jacksonville, 20th district director of the American Legion Auxiliary, was the principal speaker Thursday night at a meeting of the Calhoun County Council of the Auxiliary at the Legion Hall at Kampsville. Mrs. Davis was accompanied by her secretary, Mrs. Glenn Skinner, who also spoke briefly.

Following opening ceremonies conducted by Mrs. Raphael Snyder, county president, Mrs. Aldene Gimbel, president of the Kampsville unit welcomed the guests, and a response was given by Mrs. William Stone, president of the unit at Hardin. Reports of unit activities were given by the two presidents mentioned above, by Mrs. Howard Meyer, president of the Brussels unit, and by Mrs. Snyder of the Batchtown unit. The reports showed that all units in the county had reached their quota in membership.

In her talk, Mrs. Davis praised the local units for their membership accomplishments, and announced that the 20th district has reached 100% of last year's membership and needs only 49 more members to attain quota. She also disclosed that the 20th district is leading the entire state in the sale of veterans' craft articles. Other announcements included that of the 20th district convention in Beardstown on May 20, the Junior Auxiliary conference in Champaign on June 6 and the pilgrimage to the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors School at Normal on June 7.

MITEY-DRYE™ by MODELLA

 your baby can SLEEP and AWAKEN
with his ENTIRE body dry

 each 1.00
3 for 2.98

Mitey-Drye is used together with regular diapers—does not replace them. One size fits any diaper. All you do is place Mitey-Drye in diaper so that Mitey-Drye will be next to skin when pinned together with diaper.

Mitey-Drye is a new kind of long-lasting, washable diaper liner which works, like magic, to keep baby dry without constant changings. It's the wonderful new way to protect baby from cold, wet, clammy diapers—which cause diaper rash, redness, irritation to his tender skin!

Made of soft fabric treated with Expelthal—Mitey-Drye lets wetness pass through to diapers, and keeps it there. Then Mitey-Drye dries within 15 minutes after wetting. This same procedure continues all night long... or whenever baby wears Mitey-Drye*. So baby's body is bone dry within minutes—every time he wets! Can be worn over and over again.

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Take a look at the West hand only. The game is duplicate and you open one heart with no one vulnerable. North doubles. East bids two hearts. South two spades and you jump to four hearts. North bids four spades and it is passed around to you. What do you do? Marshall Miles of San Bernardino doubled and opened his singleton ace of clubs. North put down the dummy and thanked him for his nice lead.

Marshall replied, "I wasn't trying to help you" and proceeded to set the hand three tricks. It wasn't difficult. He simply led a diamond to his partner's ace and ruffed the club return. Then he cashed the ace and king of hearts and ace of trumps for a three trick set.

The game was duplicate, as mentioned, and the 500 points give Marshall a top score. Strangely enough all other West's played the hand at four hearts and made six. North either passed throughout or overcalled with two clubs but always opened the king of clubs whereupon all declarer had to do to make six was to draw trumps and lose one diamond trick.

The slam was decidedly not biddable, however, and could not be made against a spade lead in any event.

Importance Of Old Car Shops Recalled By Historical Tape

That few people in Jacksonville know what skilled craftsman-ship was demonstrated at the shops of the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis Railway, and there are few left to tell its story, was the gist of a taped conversation which provided the program for the Morgan County Historical Society's quarterly meeting Friday evening at the Dunlap Hotel.

John Buckley and Harvey Atkins were the participants in "A Conversation On Tape," so titled by Ernest L. Hoagland, president of the society. John Couat, principal of Jonathan Turner Junior High School, was at the controls for playing the conversation recorded several years ago by Don Robinson, local teacher, at Mr. Buckley's home on the corner of Beecher and East streets.

Mr. Atkins' part in the conversation dealt largely with the history of the railroad itself, while Mr. Buckley's remarks concerned with the many kinds of skilled labor performed in the various shops.

In order to help finance the building of the shops, the city of Jacksonville sold lots in the addition to the city known as the Car Shops Addition.

Mr. Buckley In Hospital Mr. Atkins was a guest of the society for the dinner which preceded the business meeting and program, but Mr. Buckley, who is a patient at Our Saviour's Hospital, was unable to be present.

Ernest L. Hoagland, president of the group, presided and, during the business session, introduced Dr. Deckard Ritter who presented the awards for the essay contest, an annual project of the society.

"This is a project in which the society has taken a great deal of pride," Mr. Hoagland said, in introducing Dr. Ritter.

High School Award Ronald Garfield received the only high school award for his essay on "The Underground Railroad." Ronald read excerpts from his essay as a part of the evening's program.

"Jacksonville residents fought against what they deemed wrong," he concluded, in his account of the part Jacksonville people took in manning the underground railway and in establishing a society for the prevention of the extension of slavery.

Charles Hopper, eight-grade pupil of Miss Irah Lewis at Jonathan Turner Junior High School, won first place in the grade-school division for his essay on "Hassell Hopper-Morgan County Civil War Soldiers."

Jane Sorrells, also a pupil of Miss Lewis, won second place for her essay on "Joseph R. Harker."

Sharon K. Littig, pupil of Mr. Roy Lovekamp at Salem Lutheran School, also won a second place award for her essay "Mrs. Ayers' Gift To Jacksonville."

Miss Helen Sweeney, teacher at the IBSS school, and Dr. Charles Frank, professor of English at Illinois College, were also members of the committee for judging the essays. Judging first individually and then as a committee, it was decided that there should be no second place high school award this year, but that two such awards should be made in the grade-school division.

Miss Lorton extended greetings and welcomed the group in behalf of a recent invitation from Mrs. Mildred Clatt, regional councilor and general chairman of the Pacific Western Association. Mrs. Clatt is a former Jacksonville Alumnae member.

Miss Joanne Carson, Tri-State president of Peoria, was also a guest.

A mother who makes believe with her children often has the upper hand. If children hate to have their ears washed, get them to pretend their ears are rooms needing careful cleaning. They'll have more fun when it's bath-time. Of course, there is also a magic word to use. It's "march."

Lois Natalee Taylor Becomes Bride Of Ronald A. Coonrod At White Hall

WHITE HALL — Last Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the local First Baptist Church Lois Natalee Taylor became the bride of Ronald Albert Coonrod. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Harry Chasteen.

Miss Carolyn Beckett sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the organ by Fred Anthony. He played the traditional wedding selections before the ceremony, including "Because."

The altar was lovely, decorated with baskets of cut spring flowers, greenery and lighted tapers in tall candelabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Taylor and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Coonrod, all of White Hall.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding day a white lace and net over taffeta wedding gown with a sabrina neckline and tiny cap sleeves outlined with iridescent sequins and accented with matching mitts. Net ruffles sweeping into a chapel-length train held secure her veil, adorned with sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Miss Ellen Walker, attending the bride as maid of honor, wore a lavender embroidered nylon over taffeta with a sabrina neckline and cap sleeves. The full skirt was accented in the back by tiers of ruffles. She wore a picture hat and white gloves.

Miss Joan Lynne Pruitt, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl, wearing a white embroidered taffeta dress, fashioned identically to that of the maid of honor. She carried a basket of rose petals. Dale Phillip, friend of the groom from Alton, was best man. Ushers were Byron Taylor, Dale Roe, Robert Taylor and Merle Brogdon. Andrew Maloney, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Taylor wore for her daughter's wedding a blue lace over taffeta with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the basement of the Baptist church. Assisting were Carolyn Lester, Marianne Pruitt, Helen Taylor, Mary E. Cook, Geron Keeney, Lynda Lorton and Carol Coonrod.

Mrs. Coonrod wore for her going away trip a navy suit with white accessories and upon their return will reside at 302 Higbee street in White Hall.

Mrs. Coonrod graduated from the White Hall high school with the class of 1958 and is employed at Gray's Clothiers.

Mr. Coonrod graduated from the White Hall high school in 1964 and is employed with Central Illinois Power Service.

Lioness Club Re-elects Florence Murray President

Twenty-five members of the Lioness Club met Thursday evening, April 23, in the banquet room of the Dunlap hotel for a 6:30 dinner meeting. One guest, Miss Ruth Staff, was present. Invocation was given by Lioness Grace Furry.

Spring was very much in evidence in the table arrangements, fashioned by Lionesses Lucille and Mary Walters of the decorating committee. Large arrangements of daffodils and jonquills, accented with miniature pastel colored Japanese parasols, were complimented on either side by tall white tapers in bases of similar spring flowers. Place cards, in the form of cocoanut frosted cupcakes topped with a pastel parasol, completed the attractive setting.

The flowers were later awarded to Lionesses Rabjohns, Eberhardt, Knowles, Bailey, Crouse and Gotschall. The attendance prize was received by Lioness Doris Hall.

Following dinner, the club was entertained by six members of the Acappello choir of Jacksonville high school; Lynn Middendorf, Sandra Lee, Connie Houston, Carole Williams, Donna Lovekamp and Judy Baldwin. Miss Susan Beggs accompanied the girls on the piano during two numbers.

President Florence Murray presided at the business meeting. Committee reports were presented, followed by a report of the nominating committee, with Lioness Martha Crouse serving as chairman. Lioness Florence Murray was elected to serve a second term of office, with Lioness Pauline Waga as vice president; Lioness Marie Barton, secretary and Lioness Revela Katz as treasurer.

New directors replacing Lionesses Lucille Walters and Pearl Gotschall, who have completed three years of office, are Lionesses Abbie Rabjohns and Ruth Hoagland. All board members serving this past year were dinner guests of Lioness Murray on April 14 at her home.

Members were reminded of a rummage sale of the club to be held on April 24 and 25 back of the jail.

Lioness Elisabeth Henderson completed the evening's program by showing colored slides taken by her at all meetings of the year. The presentation of these slides resulted in a recommendation that the club continue this practice during the coming year to serve as a record of the club's activities. The meeting adjourned with the Lioness salute to the flag.

Husband's Night was held by the club of Saturday, April 25, at the Middendorf Auction House, where a planned potluck dinner was served with Lioness Frances Middendorf serving as chairman.

The new officers will be installed at the May Breakfast to be held at the hotel May 3.

A FAMOUS NICHE IN HISTORY

WHAT IS PROBABLY the world's greatest jigsaw puzzle is slowly being assembled in a cave at Sperlonga, Italy, as a group of archeologists patiently piece together thousands of recently discovered fragments of ancient Greek statuary.

The cave, located on the seacoast at a point halfway between Rome and Naples, is believed to be the sumptuous bath resort of the famous Roman emperor, Tiberius Claudius Nero, who reigned from 14 to 37 A. D. Tiberius purportedly converted the vast grotto, containing a thermal spring, into a pleasure resort and banquet hall that had no equal in the Roman Empire.

Most significant of all the archeological finds to date is a large hand and forearm, together with a large foot, leg and thigh, each almost two and a half times life size. These fragments are thought to be a part of the original Laocoon group, masterpieces of the Rhodian sculptors Agesander, Athenodorus and Polydorus.

Should the Laocoon discovered at Sperlonga prove to be the original, the group in the Vatican Museum would be considered a copy, presumably made by the same sculptor.

Under the direction of Professor Giulio Jacopi of the Italian Government's Department of Fine Arts and Antiquities, members of his archeological unit are carefully sifting every spadeful of sand and gravel taken from the grotto as they seek to restore the treasure of Tiberius.

More than 12,000 fragments of statuary from this productive period of Greek sculpture have been unearthed so far in what Dr. Jacopi says is "the richest find in 300 years of Roman diggings." A dike has been constructed at the mouth of the cave to keep out high seas. Pumps work day and night to keep the grotto dry and permit the excavation to go on uninterrupted. All the fragments of Greek statuary uncovered so far remain in the cave. The archeologists believe that the sculptures were deliberately smashed with a hammer and not by falling rock.

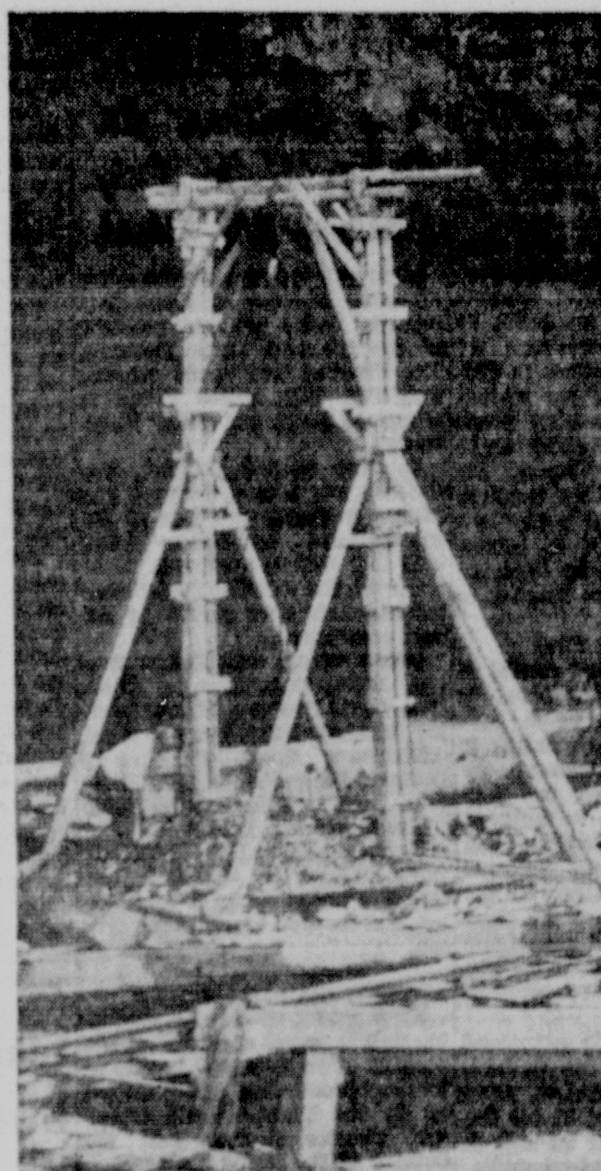

Professor Giulio Jacopi, directing the excavation, inspects giant leg of Laocoon statue.

BITS OF BROKEN MARBLE are scrutinized on the grotto floor by archeologist seeking to restore the ancient Greek statuary.

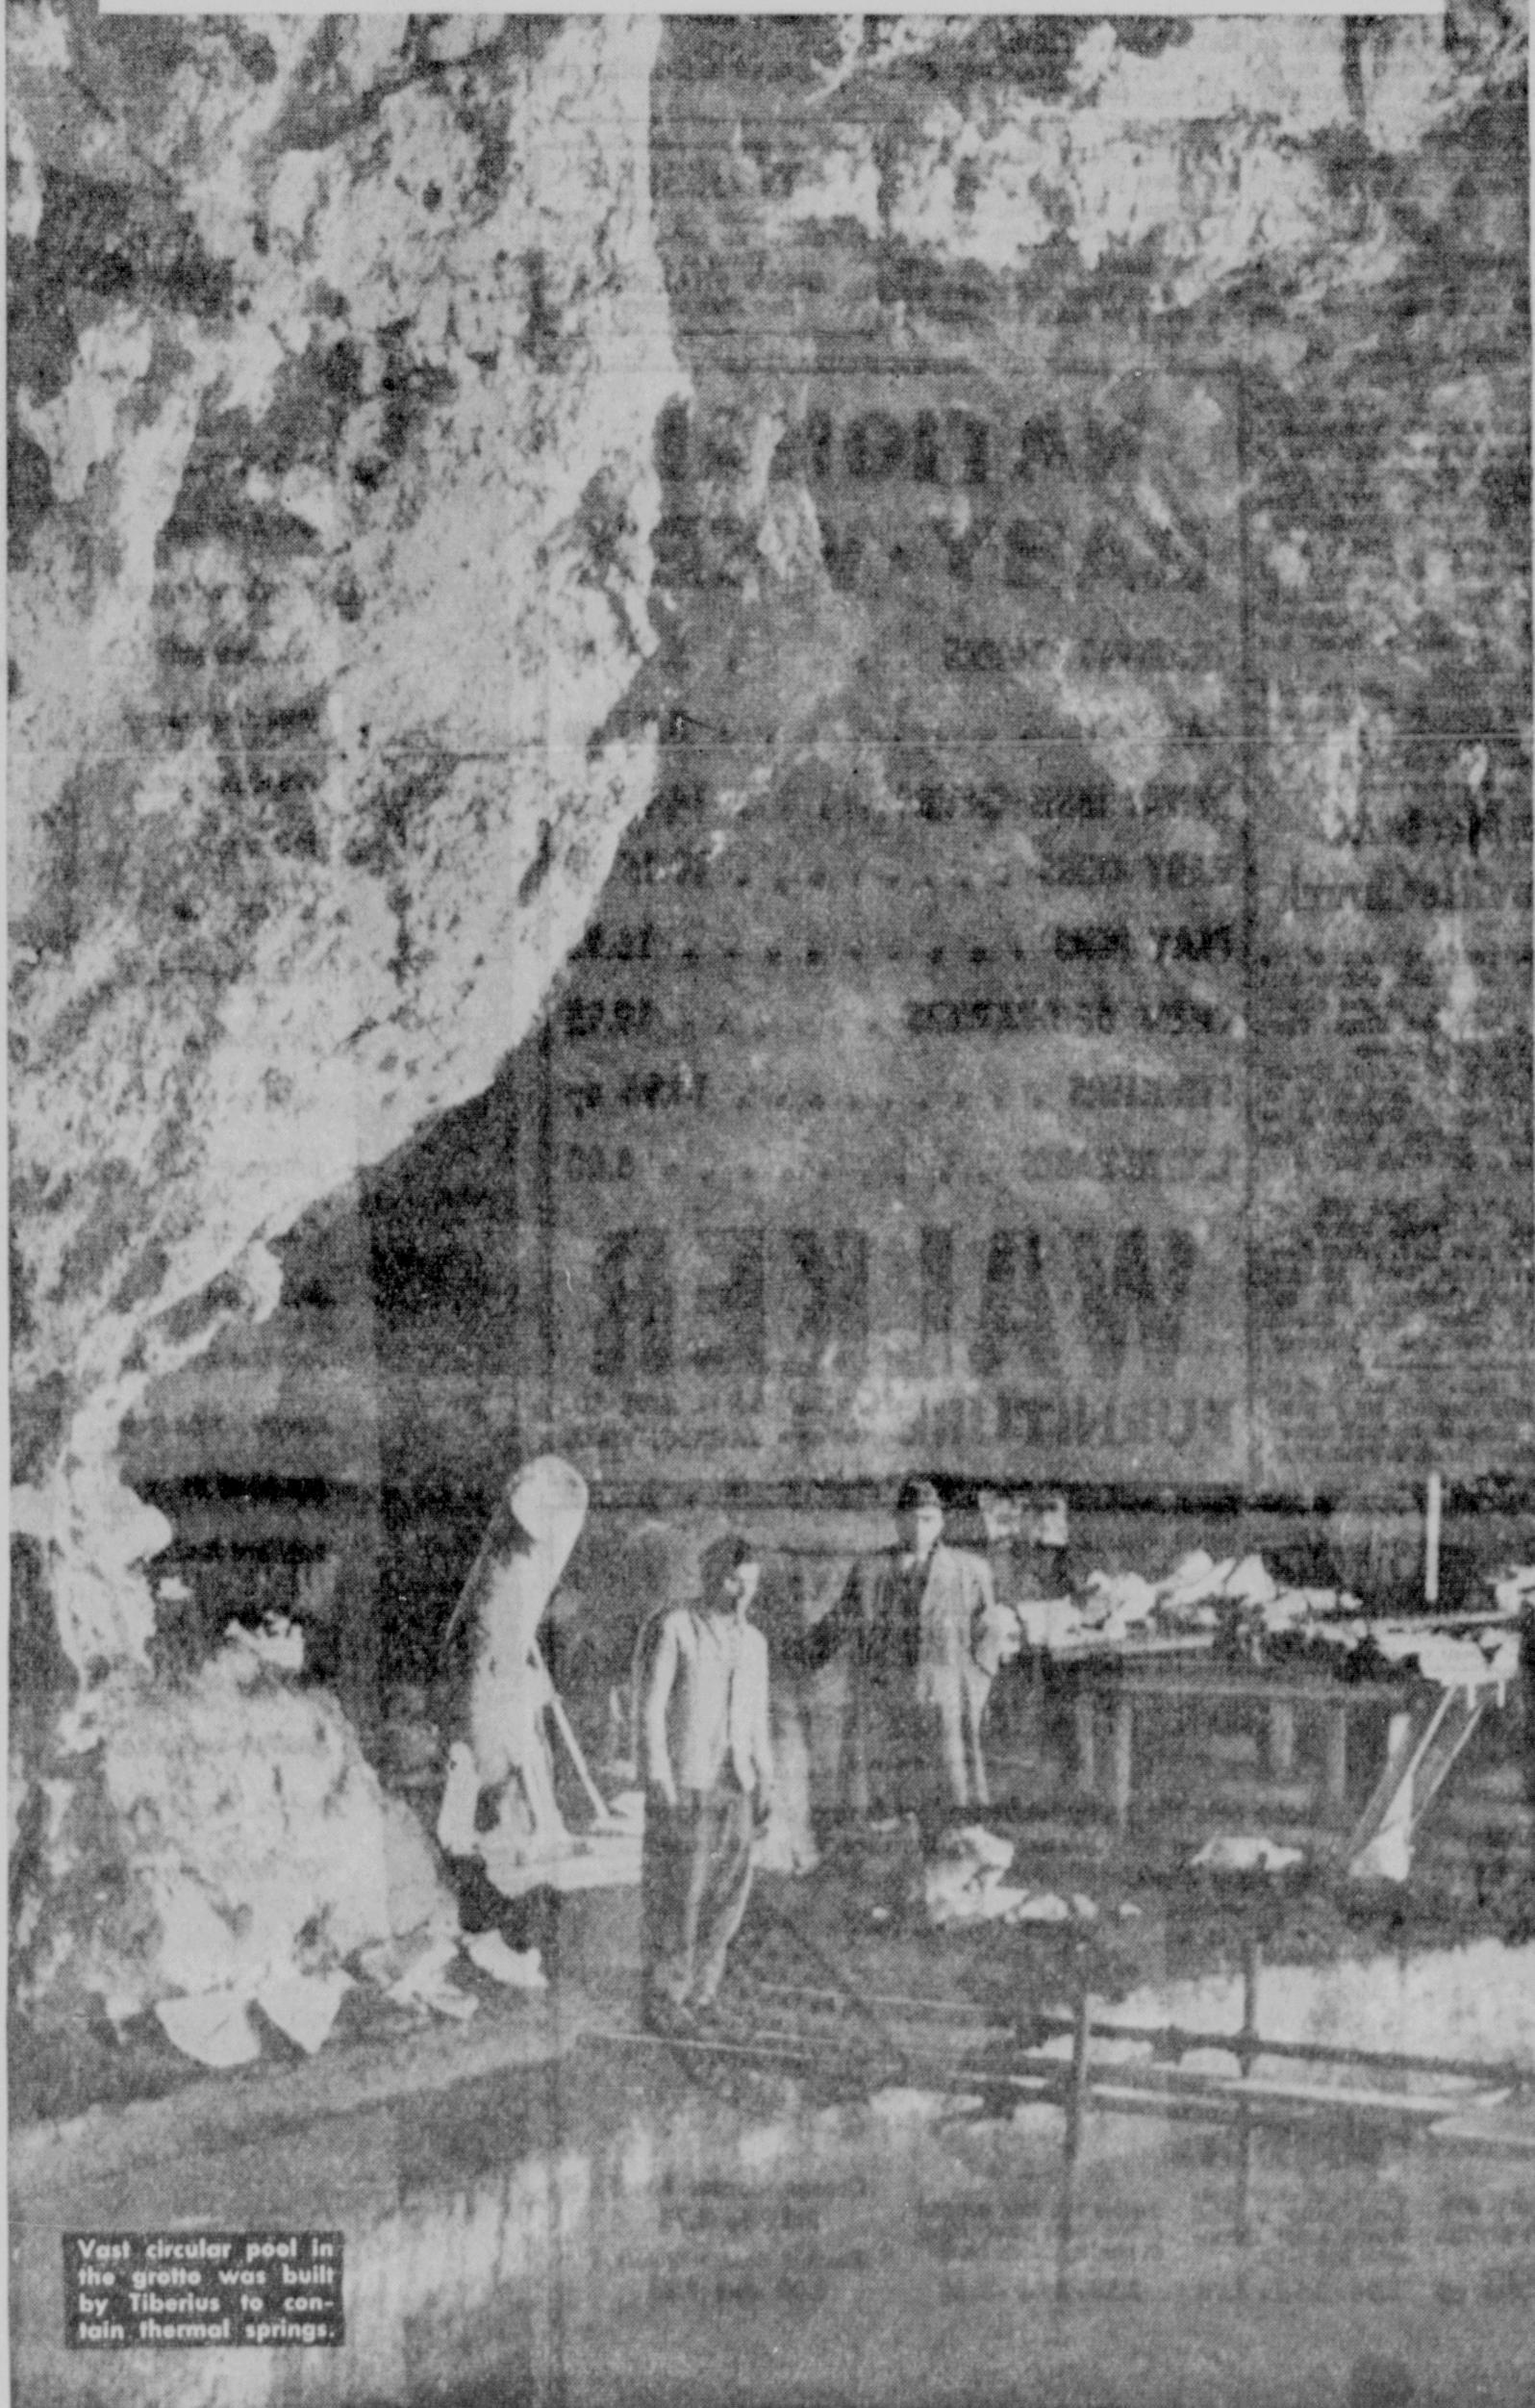

EVERY SHOVELFUL of diggings is examined before and after washing in sluice.

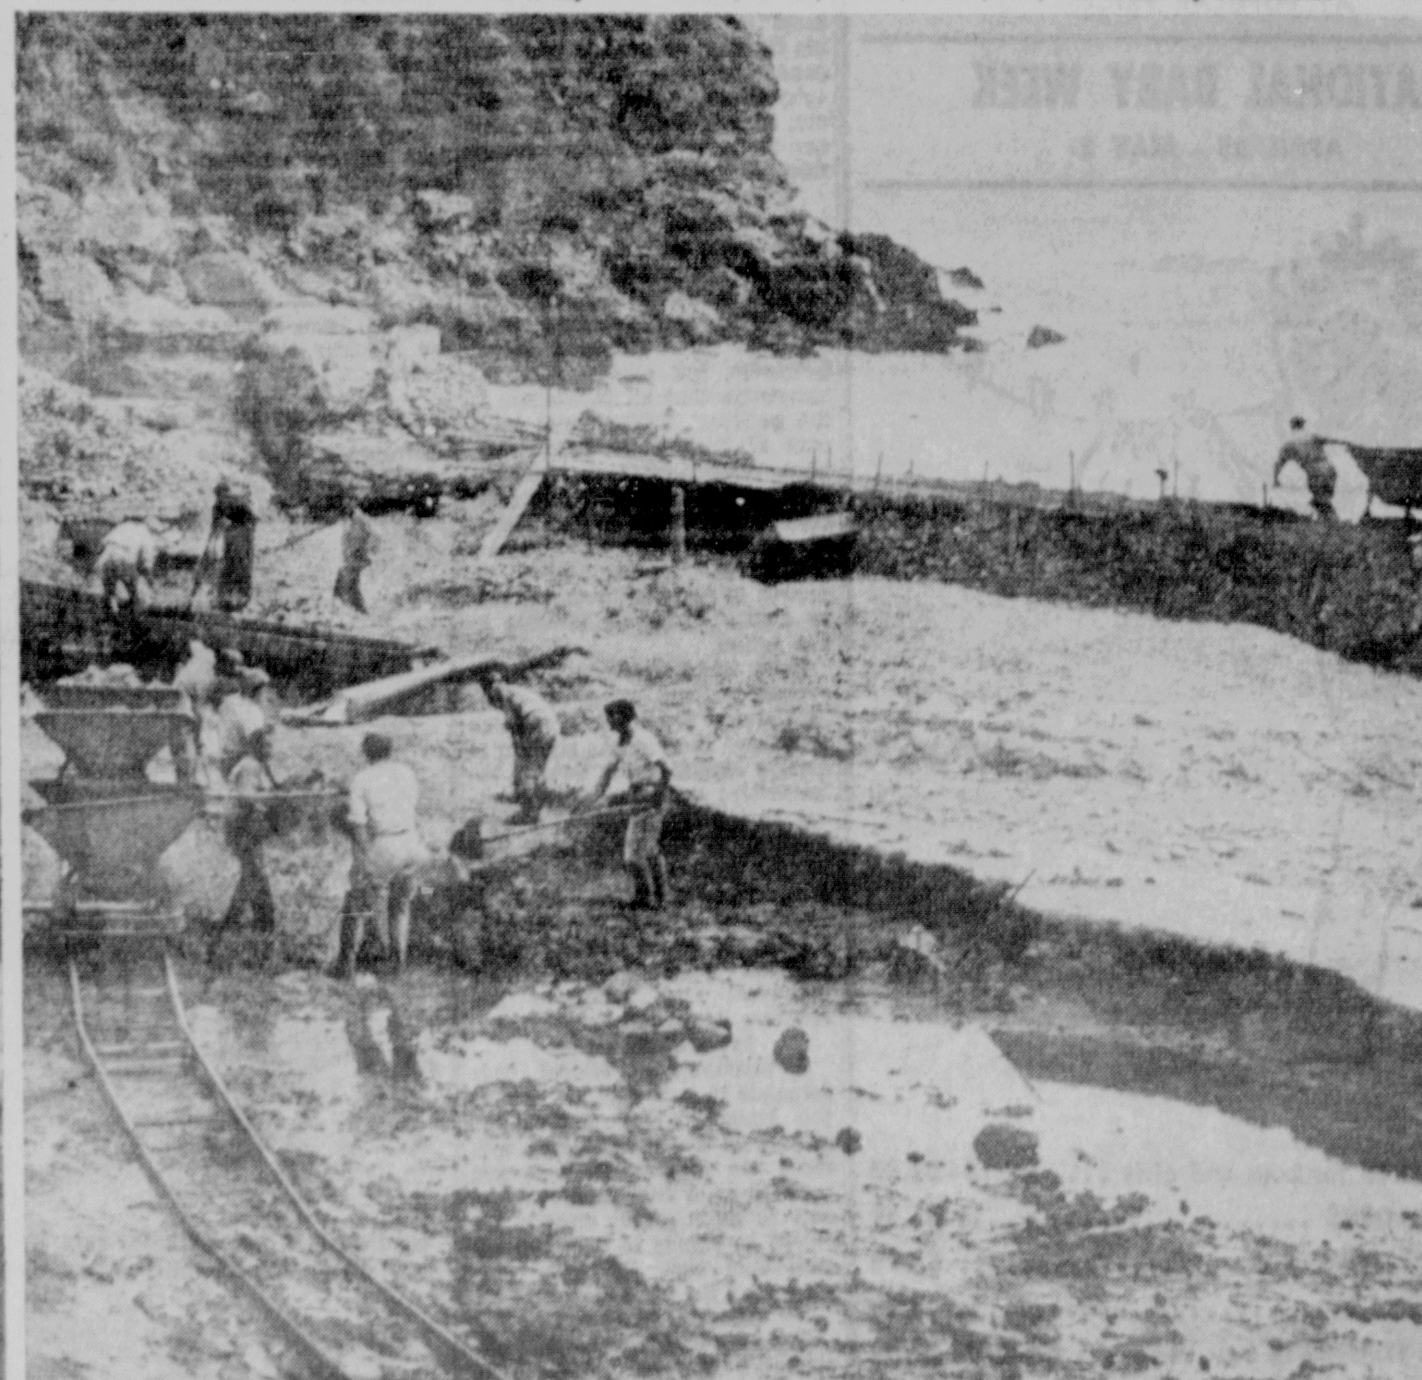

VIEW FROM DIKE shows entrance to the fabulous thermal cave of Tiberius as it is today.

TABLES IN THE grotto contain many of the white marble statues, heads, hands, torsos, etc., unearthed by searchers.

Vast circular pool in the grotto was built by Tiberius to contain thermal springs.

HAND-PUSHED RAIL CARS carry the excavation dirt to a dump after it has been thoroughly sifted. At the right may be seen part of the dike built by excavation engineers to keep high seas from operation site.

Mrs. Ruby Hembrough, psychologist at Jacksonville State Hospital, explains one phase of patient diagnosis to Mrs. Ruth Lemme, secretary in the psychology department.

Role Of Psychologist Provides Foundation For Rehabilitation

A group of five psychologists and one secretary at Jacksonville State Hospital has become an integral part of the team of workers who, in humanitarian fashion, aid the emotionally disturbed. The psychologists working in this setting are called clinical psychologists, indicating that they have had specialized training in personality development, abnormal psychology and use of diagnostic - interpretive test materials (among others), in addition to their preclinical instructions in the basic science of psychology. All have obtained their Ph. D. and/or Masters degrees; they are well grounded in scientific research methodology.

Goals Of Psychology

Their efforts are directed toward those goals which define psychology as a profession. Contributions to mankind are made by three kinds of endeavor: By scientific research which is dedicated to furthering our knowledge of man; by teaching which is devoted to distributing this knowledge and to laying the foundation for further inquiry; and by professional service which is consecrated to bettering man's condition by applying this knowledge to the solution of human problems.

Dispel Fears First

When a patient first comes to us, he is usually orientated to hospital procedures by a psychologist so that fears relating to being in a new environment may be allayed. Moreover, the psychologist is obliged to note in written form the condition and symptoms the patient presents shortly after admission. In the weeks to follow many of these same patients will be seen again by psychologists for more detailed and exhaustive work up of their cases.

The psychologist is concerned with understanding his patients as thoroughly as possible, using every bit of material at his disposal, so as to better be able to help in the treatment-rehabilitation planning program for individuals. He uses his test materials and interview skills as aides—must be able to communicate his findings accurately and with candor to other team members (physicians, aides, social workers, nurses, etc.) if the patients are to reap maximum rewards from his efforts.

Practical Application

Psychologists here often become doers as well as planners regarding treatment. They enter into individual psychotherapy and group psychotherapy relationships when indicated (never isolatedly, but always with the knowledge that all individuals in the patients' milieu must be a part of therapeutic procedure). These relationship techniques enable patients, hopefully, to gain greater awareness of the causes of emotional turmoil within themselves, leading them to growth of personality and greater ability to handle stresses in the future.

Even when lecturing to lay groups, student nurses or other employees within the hospital, they have in mind the sharing of certain humanitarian values, relationships skills and psychological knowledge, so as to contribute to patient welfare. In this regard, they know that a content, communicative, staff is comforting to patients, and so attempt to foster healthy interpersonal relationships between individual staff members and between departments.

Professional Ethics

A psychologist's ethical code demands in part that he respect the integrity and protect the welfare of every individual who seeks his aid; confidences are guarded as a trust and released only to those people directly involved in efforts to help the patient—this with the prior permission of the patient.

Extend Invitation

Members of the psychology department will look forward to greeting you on May 3. They shall earnestly endeavor to answer your questions regarding their work and/or the field of mental health. They feel that an enlightened public is the key to realistic treatment for the mentally ill.

Guest Night For Welcome Wagon At May Meeting

The Jacksonville Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club met Tuesday evening, April 21 at the Dunlap Hotel. Mrs. Willard Pulkerson presided.

Four guests were introduced: Joan McMillan, Mrs. John Wright, Mrs. Bruce Stevens and Mrs. James Kats.

It was voted by the members to have a guest night at the May meeting which will include a style show. Mary Lou Blazevic reported on the dance to be held May 16 at the Knights of Columbus hall. Bob Sassenberger's orchestra will play at this event and tickets were distributed to the club.

A most interesting program was enjoyed by the members. Mrs. Arthur Hallberg of the Educational Division of the Morgan County Cancer Fund introduced Dr. Mary Louise Newman who gave a talk on cancer. A cancer film was shown called "Time and Two Women." The film projectionist was Mrs. Violet Auwarter, another member of the Educational Division of the Morgan County Cancer Fund. At the conclusion of speech, Dr. Newman answered questions asked from the floor.

Hostesses for the evening were Lois Morgan, Betty Colthern, Mildred Cruse and Dorris Dorris.

Scholarships Of MacMurray Go To Seven States

Fourteen of MacMurray College's top scholarships have been awarded students in seven states, Spencer Lane, director of admissions, announced Saturday.

Cartwright and Akers scholarships in amounts up to $3,000 each were made on the basis of ranking in the upper fourth of the high school class, qualities of leadership, and performance on College Board entrance examinations throughout the nation.

Two Springfield students were among recipients that include seniors from Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, Maryland, and Colorado. They are C. Douglas Hindman, a Springfield high school senior who received a $1200 award, and Larry Camp, a Lanphier senior who received the maximum.

Both received Akers scholarships, since these go to males exclusively, with Cartwrights awarded to women. The scholarships were named after two of the college's founders, Rev. Peter Cartwright and Rev. Peter Akers. The former was a circuit-riding Methodist minister who was the first president of the board of trustees, back in the mid-19th century, and Akers originally made the motion to found the women's college.

The scholarships are awarded on a four-year basis, with the amount increasing as junior and senior years are reached.

Class Meets At Lynnville Church

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scholfield, Danny and Eddie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newberry, Bruce and Stevie, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson, Mrs. Muriel Vasey and the host and hostess.

If you want a baking sheet that's easily cleaned, try greasing only the spots to be used instead of the whole sheet. It's more economical, too.

Re-using plastic bags you get at the store or dry cleaners is a moneysaver. Store seeds and bulbs in the smaller ones, for example. Larger plastic bags can cover stored fans, books and papers that you won't be using but want to keep clean.

Butcher Hogs Firm Despite Large Volume

CHICAGO (AP)—A strong shipper demand was the main support of the butcher hog market this week and prices held steady to 25 cents higher despite the largest receipts for the period since January.

Offerings on the 12 major markets also were the heaviest in two months.

Shippers bought 13,000 head during the period, the largest amount taken for slaughter elsewhere with one exception since January and local packers were good buyers generally most days.

A strong to higher wholesale pork market also had a firming influence.

The supply of slaughter steers dropped about 15 per cent from the preceding week and included only about 3 per cent of prime grade, the smallest for a week since last June.

After Monday, prices trended lower on slaughter steers with most of the weakness on choice and prime grades but the market finished the week steady to 50 cents lower for all steer grades.

The market for slaughter lambs was 25 to 60 cents higher for the week with ewes steady to 50 cents higher with the supply about 12 per cent smaller than last week.

Slaughter lambs in the 90-115 lb range comprised about 95 per cent of the offerings.

Corn Strongest Among Grains In Chicago Mart

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market seldom has had so few significant commercial influences as it experienced this week but the volume of trading probably was the greatest in several months.

Speculative operators were in the forefront of transactions all the way, frequently in and out of both the long and short sides of the market on the Board of Trade.

Price fluctuations were relatively broad most days but net changes at the end of the week were relatively small in most contracts, reflecting generally the absence of any established trends either way.

However, at the end of the week prices began to show the effects of an increasing bullish attitude toward corn particularly. This grain which had a long steady rise appeared to have hit stiff resistance with cash receipts for the week showing a larger total than in any comparable period in more than two months.

At the end of the week, wheat was 4 1/2 cents a bushel lower to 1/4 higher, May 1948-97% corn unchanged to 1 1/2 lower, May 1948-97% oats 1/4-1/2 lower, May 1948-97% rye 1/4-1/2 higher, May 1948-97% soybeans 1 1/2 higher to 1 1/4 lower, May 1948-97%.

Electronics Lead Stocks Recovery In N.Y. Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market soared to still higher record peaks this week broke on profit-taking, then launched a new upward swell as the week ended.

Thanks to a sharp recovery Friday, the market posted a small gain on average for the week. The Friday advance followed two days of decline after the popular averages climbed to historic highs on Monday and Tuesday.

Electronics and other space age issues spurred the rally. Blue chips, which paced last week's march to record highs, were not so prominent.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 40 cents to $227.90. The last record of $228.70 was set Tuesday.

Good Earnings Seen
Prices were supplied with plenty of incentive for a renewed climb. There was a flood of highly favorable first-quarter earnings reports and prospects of more to come next week. Stock splits of many issues were nearing their effective dates, thus bringing the day closer when broader public trading in those stocks could be expected. In addition, many issues boosted by big prices by the bull market were being talked about in Wall Street as likely candidates for stock splits.

Small Car Issues
Of significance was that the two makers of small cars, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard, were the week's top trading favorites. The week's trading in American Motors topped half a million shares. A quarter of a million shares of this stock were traded Thursday after news of a big increase in earnings and of its first cash dividend since the company was formed by a merger in 1954. A dividend was anticipated but it was higher than Wall Street guessed.

The week's volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 17,788,350 shares compared with 17,826,640 the week before.

U.S. government and corporate bonds declined this week as money got a little tighter.

Rond trading declined to $30.18 7/8 per value on the New York Stock Exchange from $32.242 3/4 a week ago and $30.725 9/16 for the corresponding week a year ago.

An Athensville man, John D. Upton, 72, was apparently killed instantly when he was struck by an auto on Route 67, five miles north of Greenfield about 7:30 p.m. Friday evening.

Upton was walking south along the highway near the Mrs. Fred Schaefer farm when struck by a car driven by Miss Charlotte Range, 17, of Greenfield. Occupants of the auto said the man stepped onto the highway in front of the car.

He was rushed to Boyd Memorial hospital in Carrollton by ambulance where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

State troopers Edward Kahl, Wilmer Lehr and James Piles, Sheriff Leonard Stone and Coroner William H. Wolfe made an investigation into the accident.

First Major Law Since Taft-Hartley

bill would permit replaced strikers to vote in a bargaining election, thus wiping out what union officials and others have termed a "union-busting" Taft-Hartley provision, and legalize pre-hire agreements in the construction industry. Labor long has sought these.

Four important changes were made in the floor debate, one being the adoption of the bill of rights.

To Outlaw Hot Cargo
The others were insertion of a "hot cargo" amendment to outlaw agreements frequently obtained by the Teamsters Union to force a trucker to agree in a contract not to handle products which the union designates as hot; a provision to require union officials who handle money to observe fiduciary standards, and a provision to ban organizational picketing where the union has lost an election in the last nine months of where the employer has recognized another union.

Sen. Spessard Holland (D-Fla.) was beaten 64-27 in a last-minute effort to grant states authority to ban or restrict strikes on public utilities, such as gas, water, light, or public passenger transportation services.

Tigers Drop Tilt To K.C.; No. 11 Loss In 12 Games

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Detroit's Tigers made a gallant ninth inning effort but fell afoul of Dick Tomaneck's relief pitching and dropped their 11th game in 12 starts Saturday night, 8-7, as Bob Cerv again led Kansas City's winning attack.

Cerv's home run drove in three Kansas City runs in the third and knocked out starter Paul Foytack, who doubled his second game.

The Tigers scored two runs in the first as they fired an opening salvo of four hits. Then they subsided meekly without a hit as starter Ned Garver mowed them down through the fifth inning.

Eddie Yost's double started the Detroit fireworks in the first. Rocky Bridges, Al Kaline and Gail Harris contributed singles and Harvey Kuenn a sacrifice fly.

The A's scored three and went ahead to stay in the second. Hal Smith and Joe Demaestri smacked two baggers and Garver and Roger Maris contributed singles.

Although the Tigers didn't make it, they notched a run against Garver in the sixth and knocked him in the eighth with another run.

Larry Doby's walk and Frank Bolling's triple scored the seventh inning run and Doby's double, Lou Berberet brought Tom Gorman to Garver's rescue.

Carrollton Cub Scouts' Paper Drive Success

CARROLLTON — The paper drive, conducted by the Carrollton Cub Scouts April 17 and 18, was such a success that the drive will now be a regular activity of the Cub Scouts and will be conducted approximately every three months. Therefore people of Carrollton and the surrounding areas are asked to continue to save their waste paper for the drive, the dates of which will be announced later.

Any type of paper or cardboard can be used with the exception of waxed paper and waxed cardboard. Magazines are particularly desirable because of their weight.

Proceeds from the drive will remain in the local Cub Scout treasury to be used in the many projects and the educational work carried on in the Cub Scout program.

Thanks from the Scouts go to all who assisted and special thanks to those who furnished trucks and drivers to pick up the paper. These were S. E. Simpson & Co., Greene County Service Co., Byron Rhoads, Guy Stuart, Harvey Haddock and the Carrollton School Unit.

Wrights 4-H Club Wins
The stunt presented by the Wrights Jolly Pals 4-H Club won first place honors at the Greene County Share the Fun Festival which was held Thursday evening in the Greenfield Community Unit High school.

As a result, the stunt will be presented at the Share the Fun Festival at the State Fair in Springfield this August. The leader of the club who assisted in preparing the stunt is Everett Prough.

Miss Marjorie Groves won first place in the Master of Ceremonies contest and received a trophy and will have the opportunity of being a nominee for attendance at the State Fair.

Second place honors went to the Good Luck 4-H club of White Hall of which Mrs. Robert Mel-drum is leader. This club received a trophy and is an alternate to the Wrights Jolly Pals in attendance at the Share the Fun Festival at the State Fair.

The third place winners, who also received a trophy, were the Rubicon Rubies of which Mrs. Curtis Twitchell and Mrs. Gary Melvin are leaders.

The fourth and fifth place winners each received a banner and were the Oakland Go-Getters with Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ford as leaders and the Happy Days club with Mrs. Lee L. Adkins as leader.

The judges were Mrs. Thelma Wilkenson, Greene county superintendent of schools and Miss Billye Obst of the home economics department of the Carrollton Community Unit High school. Approximately 600 4-H club members, leaders, parents and friends attended the Festival.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK —(NEA)—Jack Amiel breeds and races thoroughbreds on a modest scale, but his little string lends itself to big stories.

The latest could well be entitled, "Espionage in the Barns," for Amiel suspects that he was the victim of a Caribbean conspiracy when Manassa Mauler was claimed by Emil Dolce for $12,500 at Jamaica last Nov. 19. Manassa Mauler, as you no doubt have heard, turned in a memorable upset winning the Wood Memorial and $55,915.

"All I know is that the groom who handled Manassa Mauler for me now has the same job in the other stable," says Amiel. "He is a Puerto Rican and Francesco Martin, who trains for Dolce, is a Cuban."

"Dean Alfange, with whom I own other horses, visited the stable one morning and offered me $10,000 for a half interest in Manassa Mauler. I turned the offer down, but the groom obviously was impressed. If a half interest in Manassa Mauler was worth $10,000, why not claim all of him for $12,500, which is precisely what Martin had Dolce do."

Francisco Fernandez, the groom in question, proudly led Manassa Mauler out of the winner's circle after he had paid a record $129.50 in the Wood.

Rich and dedicated racing people have tried for years to win the Kentucky Derby without success. Amiel, the one-time Harlem newsboy, purchased a Count Fleet yearling at the Saratoga Sales of 1949 for $3,700. He named the colt Count Turf after his New York restaurants, and two years later saw him win the Run for the Roses and $98,000.

Making the story extraordinary was the fact that the trainer, Sol Rutechick, thought so little of Count Turf that he didn't bother to make the trip to Churchill Downs. He sent Slim Sully, an aide, to saddle the steed.

Count Turf, which won close to $200,000 turned out to be a fine young sire. Three years ago, when a particularly good looking colt was foaled at James Drymond's Strodes Creek Farm, hard by Paris, Ky., Amiel named him Manassa Mauler after Jack Dempsey, the old heavyweight champion who is his partner in the Broadway eatery.

Manassa Mauler had sore shins, won three races out of 12 and exactly $8,965 going into the Wood Memorial. Amiel had run him in a $7,500 claiming race before he was taken for $12,500, couldn't imagine anyone putting a halter on a maiden two-year-old at that price after six starts.

"But I knew this was a good one and there was the sentimental attachment because of Dempsey," he says. "And now Manassa Mauler is denied the chance to establish a record by being the fourth of a direct line to win in Louisville."

Count Fleet, the grandsire, prevailed in 1943 and the great grand sire, Reich Count, in 1928. Dolce did not nominate Manassa Mauler for the Derby. Indeed, prior to the race, everybody outside of those attached to the two stables wondered how he mustered the courage to put up $1350 to get him in the Wood Memorial.

Ineligible for the Derby, Manassa Mauler can be made a supplementary entry to the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

We shall have to wait until then for the next important chapter in the Caribbean conspiracy, the best seller called, "Espionage in the Barns."

When this week's bowling is finished a total of 86 teams will have competed; 82 sets of doubles and 164 singles. Teams bowling this weekend are from Springfield, Pittsfield, Beardstown, Quincy, East Alton, Carrollton, Mt. Sterling, Gillespie and Jacksonville.

Leading in the team event so far is the Typewriter Exchange from Carrollton with a handicap score of 2972. All events champion to date is Joan Greathouse of Lincoln with a scratch score of 1822 and 1855 including handicap.

Three sets of doubles, bowling on the same pair of alleys, had for the second game scores of 365, 365 and 365. Girls competing in this event were Margaret Foote and Glennis Dickman of Jacksonville; Jane Landauer and Louise Ey of Lincoln-Mt. Pulaski; and Dorothy Gemberling and Judy Landauer of Emden and Lincoln.

RECALLS BLUE-GRAY GAME
BROOKLANDVILLE, Md. (P)—Mitch Tullai, football and basketball coach at St. Paul's School, says one of his top sports thrills was in 1951 when he played a 1 defensive halfback position for the team at Montgomery, Ala. "We lost to the Gray 20-19," says Tullai, "but it was a thrill to play under Rip Engle and Dick Harlow, who was an advisory coach."

Tips On Water Safety

The YMCA has drawn on 75 years of experience to compile some valuable and professional tips on water safety, according to Al Dinkel, general secretary of the Jacksonville Young Men's Christian Association.

"Swimming is one of the oldest, most useful and beneficial sports. Nearly everyone, young, old, even the handicapped can enjoy it," Dinkel said. "But five to seven thousand Americans drown each year because of simple carelessness that sometimes blinds swimmers to safety rules."

Last year the YMCA's in the United States gave swimming instructions to 478,327 persons. The "Y" owns more than 530 swimming pools throughout the United States.

The first and most important water safety rule, according to the "Y," is to learn to swim well. Many people who go in the water and even strange waters, ignore the need for skilled professional training. The poor swimmer is a constant menace to himself and to others. Non-swimmers pose an even greater threat, according to YMCA water safety experts. Until they learn the basic fundamentals the only advice is to stay out of the water.

A life guard should always be present. One should never swim alone. Warning signs should be looked for and obeyed. Many people have been injured by diving into shallow water and many others have been infected by polluted water because they ignored warning signs.

It is dangerous to swim through seaweed. It could entangle you and sap your strength. Personal safety often depends on physical condition. Plunging back into cold water without resting after exertion, may cause back-out from a sudden rise in blood pressure. It may also cause painful, disabling cramps.

"Recognizing one's physical limitations," Al Dinkel explained, "and refusing invitations to competitive swimming when you're not in shape is no disgrace. Endangering a rescuer's life by collapsing from over exertion is, if you do compete, race toward, not away from, the shore, and have a third person present."

The water's depth and the current's strength cannot be measured from the surface but it is a good idea to know both before going swimming. If you are trapped in a strong current, "Y" experts say don't fight it. Swim across the current and gradually work your way in toward shore.

Mr. Dinkel pointed out that the greatest water menaces are the "would be hero" and the "water show-off." Performing dangerous stunts to impress people sooner or later causes an accident. Rescue attempts by unqualified swimmers multiply tragedies.

Water safety not only applies to swimming but also to boating and skin diving. Only good swimmers should go boating or attempt skin diving. When getting into a small boat, it should be done at the stern or bow for greater stability. Diving should never be done from a boat.

If a boat capsizes, stay with the boat. If a swimmer is in trouble, try reaching him with a pole or clothing or throw him something buoyant to hang on. It may be possible to reach the swimmer by hanging on to a dock or float with your free hand.

Even if a rescued swimmer appears to be in a hopeless condition, artificial respiration may still revive him. To give artificial respiration, kneel on one knee and face the victim's head. Robinson Defies Ultimatums For September Fight

NEW YORK (P)—Sugar Ray Robinson, a former vaudeville hooper, danced away from a pair of fight or else ultimatums Saturday by agreeing to defend his middleweight boxing title against Carmen Basilio at Los Angeles Coliseum Sept. 21.

Announcement of Robinson's acceptance came from Roy Warner, a San Bernardino, Calif., promoter, and was confirmed in New York by George Gainford, one of Robinson's managers.

Robinson was unavailable for comment. Gainford, however, said Robinson had agreed to a third—and long delayed—meeting with ex-champ Basilio for 45 per cent of the gate, Basilio, who would receive 20 per cent under current plans, had not agreed but Warner said he planned to go to Syracuse, N.Y., next week for further talks with Johnny De John, one of Carmen's managers.

Robinson's agreement came exactly on the April 25 sign-for-Basilio deadline set by the National Boxing Ass'n's Executive Committee and three days after a similar edict, set by the New York State Athletic Commission for May 7, was upheld by the New York State Supreme Court.

Both the NBA and New York ultimatums threatened Robinson with loss of his title unless he complied. Robinson has not fought since he regained the title from Basilio on a 15-round decision at Chicago Stadium, March 25, 1958. Basilio took the title from Robinson by outpointing Sugar at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 23, 1957.

Redlegs Shade Milwaukee And Spahn, 7-6

CINCINNATI (P)—The Cincinnati Reds overcame two jinxes at once Saturday as they knocked Warren Spahn out of the box and then held on for a 7-6 victory over the Milwaukee Braves. The Braves threatened to pull the game out of the fire in the ninth when Eddie Mathews hit a two-run homer.

They had two more men on base when Del Crandall filed out to end the game. Going into Saturday's game Spahn had a 31-15 lifetime record against the Reds and had beaten them six straight times. As a team, the Braves had won 36 of 45 games from Cincinnati during 1957, 1958 and this year. Johnny Temple, who rarely hits for distance, had a two-run homer for Cincinnati and Bill Bruton, along with Mathews, had a home run for the Braves. Frank Thomas had four hits for Cincinnati.

The setback was the first of the season for Spahn and the victory went to Tom Acker, second of three Cincinnati pitchers.

Future Isn't Too Bright For Loser Virgil Akins

By SKIPPER PATRICK

Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (P)—World welterweight champion Don Jordan and ex-kingspin Virgil Akins have plenty of time on their hands Saturday.

For Jordan, a good punching boxer from Los Angeles, his merely a matter of making time until a swollen right hand mends and his manager, Don Neseth, lines up his next fight.

But for the 31-year-old Akins, who failed by a very wide margin of regaining the welter crown from Jordan in a 15 rounder here Friday night, the future isn't exactly bright.

X-rays failed to disclose a fracture of Jordan's right hand and apparently the 24-year-old part Apache will be ready to fight when Neseth gives him the word. Neseth insists he doesn't know the next opponent yet, but he kicked around names like Denny Moyer for a possible scrap in Portland, Ore., carrying a $70,000 guarantee. He figures Art Aragon would draw a good gate in Los Angeles and that Carmen Basilio would do business most any place.

Except for the first three rounds when Akins carried the fight and had Jordan in trouble briefly, it was definitely the champ's night again as he won his 45th bout against 11 defeats on a unanimous decision.

GOLFER HOLES OUT
ENID, Okla. (P)—Golfer Elder D. Skelly made a hole in one at the wrong time in the wrong place and the wrong way.

While practicing his golf swing in the front yard, Skelly lost his grip on the club. It flew out of his hands and struck the only moving car in sight — police cruiser No. 1—leaving a neat hole in the windshield.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Canton's Little Giants will play in the Bloom Township high school Holiday Tourney Jan. 15-16 with Marshall (Chicago), Chicago Heights, Bloom and North Chicago in a round robin tourney. The second annual Canton High Holiday tourney of 1960 might find several state powers as Bloom (Chicago Heights), Rock Falls, Rantoul and Danville have all indicated an interest in playing at Canton. The schools entered for the first annual meet in 1959 are Abingdon, Farmington, Forman (Manito), Kewanee, Lanphier (Springfield), Rich Township (Park Forest), Richwoods (Peoria Heights) and Canton.

The South Central conference track and field meet will be held at Carlinville on May 5 and the Carlinville Frosh-Soph meet is scheduled to be held on May 8 and the conference frosh-soph meet is set for May 12. I had a little visit with Kenneth L. "Spike" Wilson of the Illinois School for the Deaf on the square in Jacksonville Tuesday afternoon. Nice to see my friend of Central Illinois once in awhile.

Billy Stone and Chuck Orsborn, coaches at Bradley U., will be the principal speakers at the Richwoods (Peoria Heights) high school second annual sports banquet on April 29. William Hughes, athletic director, announced that WMBD Sports Director Tom Kelly will serve as toastmaster at the dinner. The affair is sponsored by the athletic department and the Letterman's club.

Joe Monahan is the basketball captain for the 1959-60 season at Arcola high school. Harv Schmidt is in the market for a high school coaching job and former Canton cante mentor Frank Whitman is high on Schmidt as one of the best high school eagles in recent years. Schmidt formerly played with Kankakee high in 1953, losing to state champion LaGrange in a hard sectional grid at Joliet. Bob Sink, assistant coach the past year at Paris high, has resigned to take a job in the Mattoon school system.

Coach Al Rosenberger's Jacksonville high linebacks will be going for their third consecutive district track and field title at Macomb on May 8. The Crimsons won last year by beating second place Quincy high by 13 points and defending state champion in the broad jump, Bobby Watts, is back to defend his laurels. He won the 180 yard low hurdles with a time of :20.7 last year at Macomb's Hanson field. Mike Hudson is back in the broad jump as he garnered third last year and Merritt Norvell is back in the high hurdles and broad jump. Dave Bone is back in the high hurdles and he won fourth last year while Bourn is back in the pole vault and Jacksonville has a fine 880 yard relay team. The Jacks were fifth in this event last year in the district meet.

Carlinville won the Macapin county basketball tourney last season for the second time since 1919 and the Cavaliers' other championship five was in 1957. Gillespie leads with 13 titles while Mt. Olive has claimed 11 championship trophies. White Hall high won their first tourney championship in 1928 and lost a heart breaker 14-13 decision to Waverly in 1924 at Jacksonville's district meet in the championship game. A late foul on Harold "Chief" England, White Hall's ace center, cost the Greene county five the ball game and Waverly won its only chance to play in a sectional tourney losing to Metcalf high in the opening round.

CLAIMS MOUNT UP

HALLANDALE, Fla. (P)—When 22 claims were entered for a winner in a recent claiming race at Gulfstream Park, the occurrence touched off an avalanche of discussion as to the national record for such claims.

Horace Wade, Gulfstream Park's director of racing, remembered when 33 claims were entered for a horse named Blended at Suffolk Downs. But trainers were pretty well agreed that the record must be the 54 claims entered for Flag Bearer at Arlington Downs, Tex., in 1934.

The furlongs, the measure used to distinguish the distance of horse races, is so named because the 220 yards that it represents is the span of a furrow an oxen could plow without stopping for a rest. Eight furlongs constitute a mile.

Jack Onslow, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, is scouting for the Boston Red Sox.

Routt Rockets Blank Chapin Bearcats, 9-0

Effective pitching by four Rock-et hurlers enabled Routt to gain a 9-0 shutout victory over Chapin Friday afternoon at Nichols Park in a PMSC Conference contest.

Fred Curtis, second of four hurlers, was credited with the win in working three innings. He took over for starter John Fitzpatrick in the third frame. Werricks collected the only hit off Fitzpatrick with a bloop single in the initial inning.

Ted Surratt, who hurled a creditable game after a shaky start, ran into trouble again in the sixth stanza and was relieved by Hymes. Surratt gave up nine walks but only three hits in a losing cause.

Mickey Walker and Joe Cors finished up for Winstead's nine. The only other hit for Glenn Ambler's Bearcats was a bunt by Alan Anderson in the sixth inning of Mickey Walker.

The Rockets scored the clinching runs in their first time at bat on an error, three straight walks, and a double by catcher Irvin Todd. That was the only extra-base hit of the game.

Mary Hohenberger enabled MacMurray to collect its fourth win with a one-sided 14-0 night-cap margin. Ron Price had a perfect four-for-four and five RBI's credited to his bat. Jamison drove in three tallies with three hits in four times at bat.

Rules Are Unchanged For Soap Box Derby; Still Time To Enter

Official rules for the 1959 Soap Box Derby are virtually unchanged from 1958, giving each boy who enters the competition equal opportunity to win prizes and fame.

Skill — both in building and driving — is the big factor in determining the champion of each local race.

In approving the rules for 1959, the National Rules and Control Committee of the Soap Box Derby observed that there was little or no demand from any quarter for revisions of the 1958 regulations.

High Caliber Inspection
The committee emphasized, however, that the success of the competition depends essentially upon maintaining a high caliber of inspection at the local level.

Most recurrent problem for local inspectors, the committee reported, has been the weight factor. This rule states that the combined weight of the Soap Box Derby car and the driver must not exceed 250 pounds. The car may be built up to the maximum 250 pounds for car and boy by the use of WOOD ONLY but the added poundage to reach the figure must be built solidly and securely into the car's chassis or body.

No Lead Allowed
Most of the misunderstanding on this rule stems from boys adding weight to the car in a manner that inspectors consider unsafe, the committee said. The weight rule stipulates that wood only may be used and that no loose or loosely fastened material is permitted in the car.

In setting up the 1959 rules, the committee specifically called attention to the fact that lead cannot be used in car construction. Each Derby contestant, therefore, should pay particular attention to the weight rule in building his car.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OFFICIALS PRESENT REPORT

Left to right are: William N. Clark, financial editor of the Chicago Tribune, principal speaker for the evening; Clarendon Smith, program chairman for the annual banquet and retiring member of the board of directors; Herbert C. Childs, president of the Chamber of Commerce; and James E. Armitage, executive secretary of the organization.

All four were instrumental in presenting the program and report to the 1959 annual dinner meeting of the Chamber.

RECEIVES "CONTACT" AWARD

William N. Fay, left, receives the annual "Contact" plaque from Robert Caldwell in ceremonies at the Chamber of Commerce banquet last night for securing the most new members during the past year for the organization. The "Contact" club, a committee of the chamber, is so designated for its activities in securing membership and activities in business and professional circles.

William Clark Gives Principal Address At Annual C Of C Meet

A look at the past and a calculated forecast of future business conditions was included in an address by William N. Clark, financial editor of the Chicago Tribune, at the annual dinner meeting of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was held in the banquet room of the Dunlap hotel and included a capacity audience of members, wives and guests.

"Behind The Crystal Eight Ball," was the subject of Mr. Clark's address, whose view is from the desk of a busy financial editor of a metropolitan newspaper. His many contacts in the business and professional world supplied the basis for his text.

Short Term Outlook
The short term business outlook seems better now than it did at the beginning of the year. Such factors as corporate and personal income, industrial production, automobile output, and the plans of business to spend on new plant and equipment all seem stronger at this point than most economists believed they would when making their annual year end predictions.

Unless there is a protracted steel strike, it seems likely that 1959 will set new records in almost all major categories of production, sales, and income.

Market Shows Strength
The remarkable strength of the securities markets in recent years has been the result of strong demand pressing against a limited supply of top grade stocks. The demand has come from individuals seeking to buy stocks as a hedge against inflation, and from pension funds, trusts, and other institutional investors with a steady flow of new funds for investment provided by income or investments already held.

The supply of top grade stocks has been limited by the fact that such buyers buy for keeps rather than to engage in in-and-out trading, and by the tax advantage to corporations of raising money by selling bonds rather than issuing new stock.

The combination of strong demand pressing against supplies of stocks limited in this fashion has sent prices soaring. Moreover, the fact that the so-called industrial stock "average" is actually an index based on the movement of a selected list of top grade issues means that it does not give an accurate picture of the whole market. It performs better than the total market average.

Seek Wise Counsel
This is the time to seek the best possible counsel for your investment problems. There are too many who have had investment success since World War II and believe now that it is impossible to lose on the market. This sort of overconfidence can lead to dangerous speculation.

Think For Yourself
No matter what type of group you belong to, don't yield right to think for yourself, evaluate all information available, and make your own decision. This is true for members of labor unions, for individual companies in an industry, and for members of a trade association. Support good causes, but don't give up the privilege of making your own decisions and doing your own thinking. If you stop doing these things, you soon will lose the ability to use them.

Close Ties With City
Mr. Clark, a member of the Tribune financial staff for 16 years, was born in Chicago but was reared and educated in Jacksonville where his father, the late Dr. Samuel N. Clark, was on the staff of the Norbury Sanatorium.

At 14, he began working during summer vacations and spare time as a reporter or filled in as telegraph or city editor of the Jacksonville Journal and Courier. Upon graduation from Illinois College in 1940 with an A.B. degree, he went to Chicago as a reporter for the City News Bureau, for which he covered police and court news.

He subsequently joined the Tribune staff and received the post of Financial Editor in 1956. Makes Annual Report
President of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, Herbert C. Childs, was toastmaster for the evening and gave a portion of the annual report on activities and progress of the organization throughout the year.

He touched on activities accomplished by Jacksonville Associated Merchants, The Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Women's Division, the highway committee and a recent parking survey.

Childs paid tribute to James E. Armitage, executive secretary, and members of the office staff for their efforts during the past year.

"Contact" Award
William L. Fay was presented the annual "Contact" plaque for efforts on behalf of the Chamber. Mr. Fay has been instrumental in securing the largest number of new members during the year as well as being one of the Chamber's representatives in a number of business and professional circles. The award was presented by Robert Caldwell.

New Directors
President Childs announced the results of a recent election in which six seats on the board of directors were chosen by the membership.

Elected to a two-year term were: Chester Colton, J. R. Davidsmeyer, Floyd Cox, William Buchanan, Wayne Herrin and Ray Steinhilber.

Retiring directors are: Clarendon Smith, Bruce Thomson, Harlan Lee Williamson, Lee Sullivan, Jr., Ed McCurdy, Hugh Gibson and Osborne Elliott.

According to State Police description the two were injured when the motorcycle which they were riding collided with an auto driven by Teresa Diprosio, 18, of Springfield. Reports stated the Diprosio auto and the motorcycle were heading west when the cycle attempted to pass the auto. Miss Diprosio made a left turn at the same moment and the two collided.

Police say the Diprosio car was signalling and as yet no tickets have been issued to either parties of the accident. State Troopers Moody and Seitz assisted at the scene of the accident.

Two Hospitalized By Motorcycle, Car Collision
Miss Thelma Dudley, 18-year-old Tallahassee resident, and Lawrence (Reggie) Buckman, 22, of Ashland, were admitted to St. John's Hospital in Springfield Saturday as the result of a motorcycle-car accident at 4:20 p.m. Both Buckman and Dudley were reported in serious condition late Saturday evening.

According to State Police description the two were injured when the motorcycle which they were riding collided with an auto driven by Teresa Diprosio, 18, of Springfield. Reports stated the Diprosio auto and the motorcycle were heading west when the cycle attempted to pass the auto. Miss Diprosio made a left turn at the same moment and the two collided.

Police say the Diprosio car was signalling and as yet no tickets have been issued to either parties of the accident. State Troopers Moody and Seitz assisted at the scene of the accident.

Miss Dudley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dudley of Tallahassee, and Buckman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Woods of Ashland.

Rural Electrification Administration Will Celebrate Anniversary

By Nancy Hainsfurther (Winchester Correspondent) (Telephone Pioneer 2-5320)

WINCHESTER — The Rural Electrification Administration has its 24th anniversary on May 11th with only one of its electric borrowers behind in its loan payments to the Federal Government, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced this week. This is the lowest delinquency record in the REA's history.

Since the REA electric program began in 1935, the agency has made loans totaling more than $3.8 billion to 1,082 rural electric systems. These utilities have made payments to the government of nearly $1.1 billion, including $599.7 million repaid on principal, $357.6 million paid in interest, and $141.7 million paid in advance of due dates.

Commenting on this record, REA Administrator David A. Hamill said: "In the latter 1930's, a lot of people were wondering if those new rural electric systems were going to be able to meet the payments on their government loans when due. Today they have the answer. The rural electrification program has proved one of the soundest investments ever made by the people of this country."

Serves 5,140,000
REA electrification loans have been used by member-owned co-operatives and other private organizations to construct 1,480,000 miles of distribution lines, and other electric facilities, to serve 5,140,000 rural consumers.

When REA began operations, only about 11 of every 100 U.S. farms had central station electric service. Today, 96 of every 100 farms are electrified. REA borrowers serve slightly more than half of these farms.

The typical REA financed electric system is a cooperative serving 8,649 consumers over 1,300 miles of line. It obtained its first loan from REA in 1937, and it has borrowed a total of $2.9 million from the government. It has repaid approximately $500,000 of this obligation, and its net worth is about 16.4 per cent of its total assets.

"In The Beginning"
"In the beginning," Administrator Hamill observed, "these systems were organized and operated by farm men and women who were, by and large, amateurs in the utility business. Despite the handicap of inexperience in this field, they built sound enterprises which have met a variety of challenges. Rural utilities survived the material shortages during the war years, they increased capacity to meet the sharply rising demand for electricity which followed the war. Today the typical rural system is professionally managed, an important local employer, and a reliable source of low-cost power for rural consumers."

The average price of power paid by residential consumers on the lines of the REA borrowers is about 2.66 cents per kilowatt hour at present, the lowest in REA history.

Telephone Program
In REA's much newer telephone program which marks its 10th anniversary next fall, results also tell the story. So far, REA has made loans totaling $567 million to 657 rural telephone companies and co-operatives. When invested in plant, this money will have built 310,000 miles of line and other facilities to bring modern dial telephone service to about 1,660,000 rural subscribers.

Telephone borrowers already have paid REA $7.8 million in interest, $10 million in principal, and $1.26 million in payments in advance of due dates.

Fifteen telephone borrowers currently are behind in their payments.

Creep-Feeding Of Calves Pays In Some Cases

URBANA — Beef calves to be sold at weaning time as feeder or fat slaughter calves probably will benefit from a creep-fed ration during nursing.

G. R. Carlisle, extension livestock specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, reports that beef calves with access to a creep weighed about 120 pounds more at weaning than similar calves not creep-fed in a test at the University's Dixon Springs Experiment Station.

This extra gain cost about 18 cents a pound, Carlisle says. The added "bloom" on the creep-fed calves helped offset any reduction in selling price due to extra weight if they are sold as feeders. The extra bloom is a real advantage if they are sold as fat slaughter calves.

Creep feeding also pays if nursing calves are to be put on a full feed of grain at weaning time.

The only time that Carlisle does not recommend creep-feeding nursing calves is when they are to be put on limited-grain, high-roughage rations after weaning. In that case the extra finish on creep-fed calves will largely be lost while the calves are on the high-roughage feeding program.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

FARMERS USING GRAIN AT RECORD PACE

CORN. Farmers used and sold corn at a record rate in the January-March quarter. Disappearance of corn from farms totaled 880 million bushels, 12 per cent more than the year before and 22 per cent more than the 10-year average. Stocks of corn remaining on farms April 1 were estimated by the USDA at 1,816 million bushels, 8 per cent more than the year before.

Farmers are using more corn this year than they used in 1958, because they have been feeding more hogs, beef cattle and poultry. The long, cold winter also increased feed requirements. They will continue to use a large amount of corn, because they are still increasing the production of pork, beef and poultry.

At the end of February, 23 per cent of the April 1 farm stocks was under price support. A year before, 22 per cent was under price support.

OATS. Farmers also used oats at a fast rate in the first quarter of this year. Disappearance from farms was estimated at 365 million bushels in the three-month period. This was 18 per cent more than the disappearance last year and 12 per cent more than the 10-year average. A special factor favoring large use of oats was their price. Stocks remaining on farms April 1 were estimated by the USDA at 588 million bushels, or 9 per cent more than one year before.

BARLEY. Disappearance of barley from farms during January-March totaled 74 million bushels, or 23 per cent more than the year before. Stocks remaining on farms were estimated at 151 million bushels, or only 1 per cent more than last year. About 61 per cent of the farm stocks of barley was under price support compared with 55 per cent a year before.

SORGHUM. Disappearance of sorghum grain from farms during the first quarter of this year was less than last year. Principal reason was that the 1958 crop was drier and was harvested earlier, and much more of it already has been moved off farms to warehouses before Jan. 1. Stocks of sorghum grain remaining on farms April 1 were estimated at 102 million bushels, or 5 per cent more than a year earlier.

ILLINOIS. Stocks of corn on Illinois farms April 1 were estimated by the USDA at 290 million bushels, practically the same as the year before.

Iowa farmers held 413 million bushels, only 24 per cent more than in 1958. Farmers in Nebraska held 199 million bushels, up 25 per cent from last year. Southern and eastern states also had more corn this year, because they had a much larger crop to begin with.

Several states reported less corn on farms April 1 this year than they had the year before. Important states with less corn included Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota. Indiana and Missouri had about the same amount as in 1958. With the exception of Nebraska and Kansas, midwestern states all have less corn on farms in comparison with their livestock numbers than they had a year ago.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

Wet bottoms need a change. And that's what they (bottoms) are getting on the Dixon Springs Experiment Station.

Leveling and Ditching
Lee Gard, soil and water specialist, has been giving wetland areas on the Station his personal attention. This attention includes ditching to carry off water, leveling land to fill low spots and pot holes and building diversion channels around hill land to catch and carry away the runoff from the hills before it floods over the bottoms.

Poorly drained areas are headaches developed from being stuck with equipment, dodging low spots and being delayed in planting and harvesting crops. Furthermore, crops generally yield less there than on well-drained areas, and the choice of crops that may be grown is limited to such summer annuals as lespedeza, corn and soybeans. On well-drained areas the choice of crops is wide open, allowing not only for corn and beans, but also for permanent or perennial pasture and hay forages and such winter annuals as wheat and other small grains. With this wider choice of crops, it is much easier to maintain organic matter needed for better soil tilth and soil life.

Record Kept
Last fall Lee kept a record of man and machine hours required to drain the Robbs bottom. Applying custom rates for the machine used, he found that it cost $41 an acre to do a good job of leveling and ditching. We will hope to recover this cost in about two years with higher yields. In a five-year rotation before drainage, we could expect a gross income of about $190 an acre. After drainage, this same area in five years should gross over $300 an acre.

Every field is an individual problem—some costing more and some costing less than the $41 an acre for draining the Robbs bottom. Some areas may be tiled, but tiling calls for a soil that lets water move through with reasonable ease. Most southern Illinois soils will not allow enough free water movement for tiling; tight subsoils dictate the use of ditches or surface drainage.

Something New
Strawberries, popcorn and sweet corn, crops new to the Station, are to be grown this year. John Wilson, recently employed extension specialists in vegetable crops and small fruits, is going right to work with the planting of 20 strawberry varieties in Superintendent Bob Webb's garden. This garden is one of three tracts to be used for Wilson's variety tests. The other two locations are at Urbana and Carbondale. Wilson also plans a popcorn demonstration plot on the Station.

As for the sweet corn, the Entomology Department of the State Natural History Survey is going to plant this crop to make a survey of insects using sweet corn as their diet.

Sees Ample Space For 1958 Corn Under Loan

URBANA — Storage space for the take-over of 1958 corn now under loan on Illinois farms should be adequate, an official of the Illinois ASC committee said last week.

Speaking before the Grain Dealers Management Conference meeting at the University of Illinois campus, Glenn Fisher reported that no county in Illinois would have a shortage of storage space if grain warehousemen complete their current building plans.

Capacity of CCC-owned bins in Illinois totals 184.7 million bushels, Fisher stated. Last fall after CCC took over 1957 loan corn, 165.2 million bushels of this storage space was filled.

In mid-March ASC officials were expecting a shortage of storage space for government grain that might have been as high as 30 million bushels on August 1. However, CCC has given orders to move 55 million bushels out of bin sites. About 3.6 million bushels of corn will be sold as off-grade corn.

With the rise in the corn market, most low loan corn will be sold on the market. So the amount of corn the CCC has to take over will be about 7 million bushels less than was expected earlier. Grain dealers have also announced plans to build another 22.4 million bushels of storage space this year.

Fisher reported that since 1956 Illinois public warehousemen have increased their storage space to handle government-owned grain from 23.8 million to 114 million bushels in February this year.

Assuming that this privately owned storage space remains filled for a full year, it will earn storage fees of over $18 million, not counting elevation and load-out fees, Fisher stated.

He urged any grain warehouseman who is planning to build more storage to review the space needs in his area by consulting with local ASC officials. The day is over when a grain warehouseman can build larger storage space than is needed in his immediate area. Almost every grain dealer is now in the storage business, and many are planning expansion, he concluded.

Sheep Dog Trials At Dixon Springs Set For June 7

Sheep dog trials will be an added feature of this year's annual Family Field Day of the Illinois Purebred Sheep Breeders' Association on Sunday, June 7, at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station in Pope county.

Sponsored by the North American Sheep Dog Association, these trials will be directed by Arthur Allen, national known sheep dog trainer and handler from McLeansboro. The trials will start early and be finished by 11:30 a.m.

Traditional family picnic lunch will follow the sheep dog trials, according to U. S. Garrigus, head of the sheep division in the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and secretary-treasurer of the Purebred Sheep Breeders' association.

In the afternoon picnic guests will tour the Dixon Springs Station, where they will see research experiments in crops, livestock and forestry. The Station has a nation-wide reputation for its studies on a system of agriculture best suited to the area of the Ozark uplift in southern Illinois.

Garrigus invites all persons who are interested in sheep and sheep dogs or in seeing the Dixon Springs Station to attend. Motel accommodations are available on Route 46 at Harrisburg, Vienna or Metropolis. The Station is located on Illinois Route 145, 25 miles south of Harrisburg and 26 miles north of Paducah, Kentucky.

GLASGOW HOME MAKERS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

The Glasgow Home Makers 4-H Club meeting was at the Glasgow school house, according to Barbara Ingram, reporter, Carolyn Hannel, president of the club, presided.

Business items taken up included officers elected: Carolyn Hannel, president; Sandra Smith, vice president; Jane Fryman, secretary and treasurer; Barbara Ingram, reporter; Charline Ingram and Sheroy Carriger, recreation committee.

The next meeting will be held May 1 at the Glasgow school house according to Kay Lawson, leader of the club.

TROG TO WORLD PREMIERE
NEW YORK (AP)—International amity is guaranteeing that James Forsythe's new play, "Trog," will have world premiere in New York next fall.

Production of the drama also is planned in England, but the sponsors there have pledged to await the date of the local opening, then schedule their own a few days later.

Era Of Additives Promoted Faster, Cheaper Gains

URBANA — Nutrition history may some day refer to the late 1940's and early 1950's as the start of the "era of feed additives."

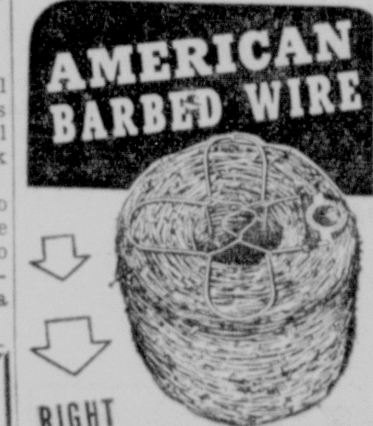

Researchers have successfully added hormones, chemicals and pharmaceuticals to cattle rations to get faster and cheaper gains. More than two thirds of all fattening cattle now get hormones, according to W. W. Albert, animal scientist at the University of Illinois.

Tests show that stilbestrol and synovex, the two commonly used hormones, increase daily gains about 15 per cent and improve feed efficiency about 15 per cent, Albert says.

Antibiotics like aureomycin or terramycin at 70 to 80 milligrams per head per day have increased gains on roughage rations about 10 per cent. Levels up to 500 milligrams a day help to cut shipping fever losses.

Urea is a satisfactory source of as much as one-third of the nitrogen in fattening rations. It is less satisfactory for growing rations. Liquid molasses supplements have been no better than oil meals.

Results of a 68-day Illinois finishing test failed to show any response from feeding the tranquilizer hydroxizine. Albert reports that tranquilizers do promise to reduce shipping shrink.

New Pilot, But Same Course

With the naming of Christian A. Herter to succeed John Foster Dulles as secretary of state, we are likely to see several important things demonstrated. For one we will see that there is a basic continuity in American foreign policy. This strong thread of consistency will not be twisted by this change, nor is there much prospect that it would be greatly altered by a secretary of state under some future Democratic president.

This country is now committed firmly to an internationalist course. It is committed also to maintaining sturdy bonds with other free nations and to resisting stoutly every effort by the Communist world to advance toward the conquest of the earth.

Different individuals holding the State Department helm may approach the fulfillment of this broad policy more or less imaginatively, more or less aggressively, with more or less eagerness for negotiation with our cold war adversaries.

But the fundamentals must be the same so long as we wish to be free.

The change from Dulles to Herter will show, too, that even with the loss of so gifted and educated a man as the alling Dulles, this nation will carry on as before.

The office inevitably must be bigger than the man, though we must always be grateful that it may benefit from the services of highly talented men.

Herter's coming to authority will also make it clear that in this troubling and difficult age, with its heavy stress upon our world problems, no man who occupies the post of secretary of state has much hope of personal popularity.

Both here and elsewhere, men still want to personalize history. That means they must have heroes and scapegoats on which to place responsibility for the things that happen. Since, inescapably, some of those things will be bad, no secretary of state can expect to be all hero, or even much of one.

Herter brings to this immensely trying task a substantial experience in foreign affairs, a long record as a devoted public servant in many areas and a wide knowledge of the critical matters lying just ahead of us in conferences with the Russians.

Yet to step into Dulles' shoes at this crucial juncture is to subject himself to a test of brain and nerve and will that few men would wish to go through. Christian Herter deserves our warm appreciation for undertaking this ordeal. With him go our great hopes.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fannie Brice once said of Esther Williams: "Well, she's a star; dry, she ain't." The same cannot be applied to Lloyd Bridges.

He was a noted actor in his own right before going under the briny in the successful TV series, "Sea Hunt." Since strapping on his aqua-lung, his career has boomed.

"The series has certainly brought me more notice than anything I have ever done before as an actor," he remarked. "It has also brought me more money than anything else in my career."

"Artistic satisfaction? No, that is lacking. But fortunately, I am able to get it by doing other things when I'm not doing 'Sea Hunt.'"

The "other things" are TV dramas, films and plays which make more use of his acting talents than the water-soaked TV show.

This summer he is touring in the big musical tent as Sky Masterson in "Guys and Dolls."

Can he sing? "I don't know; I haven't really tried."

Last year, he did "The Goddess" in his hiatus from "Sea Hunt."

So far, he hasn't found a satisfactory script for a 1959 movie — "The nice part about having a series is that you don't have to take just anything that comes along."

It appears that he will enjoy such independence for some time. "Sea Hunt" is going into the last part of its second year of films, and the producers foresee a five or six-year run. The show has been a smashing success in syndication, yet the networks passed it up.

"I guess they were all wrapped up in Westerns." Bridges observed.

The public has shown it is interested in adventure under the water as well as on the plains. The question is: How can they keep thinking up new plots?

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — After flying all the way from Washington to address a Space Age Forum at the new Sheraton Hotel in Dallas, Tex., government scientists Robert Jastrow and Harry Wexler were startled to find only a handful of people in the audience. Jastrow is chief of the new NASA Moon Exploration Team and Wexler is in charge of the Weather Bureau's Meteorological Research Branch.

Reason for the low attendance was that the forum was scheduled on the morning after an all-night winding to celebrate the hotel's opening. Everybody who was invited to hear the scientists had attended the party.

After surveying the almost empty room, moderator Logan Wilson, president of the University of Texas, cracked:

U.S. Finds It Hard To Give Away Food—Sure To Hurt Friends

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The suggestion comes up often: let's solve our farm surplus problem by giving the extra supplies to the world's hungry.

This may be a noble idea, but it's much easier said than done. Selling the surpluses to needy areas abroad at cut-rate prices is just about as difficult.

It is for this reason that the United States has arranged to hold a conference of top officials of five surplus wheat producing countries here May 5 and 6. They'll talk over what President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson call a "food for peace" program.

The United States has been giving away, and selling at low prices, billions of dollars worth of its farm surpluses in recent years. And in doing so, it has stepped on a lot of economic toes in other parts of the world.

Interferes With Others
One of the troubles with letting others have farm products at low prices—or for free—is that this frequently interferes with commercial sales, often of some other country.

After Benson announced the May conference, Australia's Dep. Prime Minister John McEwen, in this country on diplomatic affairs, called on Benson to advise against any further infringement on the commercial export trade in wheat.

The Australian leader emphasized that, wheat being his country's No. 2 export commodity, any curtailment of its markets abroad would seriously affect Australia's economic welfare.

Canada Has Same Views
Canada has given similar views. Wheat exports are vital to Canadian stability too. The continued friendship of both these countries is important to the United States.

Both Australia and Canada have nothing but praise for this country's declared desire to help the needy abroad. In fact, they too have made contributions. But they complain that at times our farm disposal operations have not always been in line with our word.

They say that there have been times when U.S. sales at easy terms and low prices have been made to countries which were quite able to make commercial purchases.

Certainly, other wheat exporting countries will insist that the commercial market be safeguarded. They will oppose any long-term giveaway program, lest it in time become a permanent feed exchange framework that would weaken further regular trade.

Printers' ink is now available in metal tubes for home use in stenciling or printing textile and furniture designs.

INSURE WITH ALDRIN
Corn root worms and other soil pests do their dirty work in secret, underground. They feast on tender young roots... and when these are destroyed, the plants tumble down in the first brisk wind.

But today you can fight back with Aldrin... a potent insecticide that destroys corn rootworms, wireworms, seed corn maggots, white grubs, and other cornfield soil pests.

Aldrin is easy to use. It can be applied as granules. In a spray, in the row or broadcast with liquid fertilizers, applying both at the same time. No matter how you use it, mere ounces of actual Aldrin per acre is all you need for effective control.

Trull To Assist In 1959 State Insect Survey

Farm Adviser George Trull last week began his new duties as the official "bug counter" in Morgan county.

He will make specific counts of various insect pests during the coming crop season and will file his report each week with the Natural History Survey in Urbana.

There his survey will be combined with those of other selected farm advisers and the findings of the N.H.S. staff to make the basis for the weekly insect pest outlook report.

In his first report the local farm adviser noted he found some pea aphids, a few clover leaf weevil and one cutworm in a typical legume stand. These numbers are counted as of significant economic importance.

Later in the year Trull will furnish information on the prevalence of insects attacking corn and soybeans.

Last season was a very "clean" year so far as insects were concerned. They were hit hard during the early hatch season by hard rains, and from then on the crop grew so rapidly that insect damage was of scant importance.

The farm adviser will give combined insect report in his WLDS radio period each week.

FFA Parent, Son Banquet Held At Bluffs School

BLUFFS—The Bluffs Chapter of the Future Farmers of America held their third annual Parent and Son Banquet on April 17 in the school lunch room.

The school cooks prepared the ham and rolls provided by the chapter. The mothers brought escalloped potatoes, baked beans and pie. Several FFA girls helped in serving the meal.

Clifford Hoots was the toastmaster for the evening. The chapter opened in regular form. Dean Haniel gave the welcome and Donald Westmeyer gave the activities of the chapter.

Bernard Goetze, instructor, presented production awards to the chapter members, including: Donald Westmeyer, beef and swine; Stephen Bruce, dairy, corn and soil conservation; Kenneth Collins, farm machines; Larry Hutton, farm safety; John Hutton, the Senior award for Farm Mechanics.

Clifford Hoots the DeKalb award and Ralph Clements was presented the scholarship award.

Virgil Coughlin, school superintendent; Orval Davis, manager of Bluffs Farmers Grain Company; Vernon Rahe, an Angus breeder, and M. J. Baulos, of the Bluffs Garage, were awarded the Honorary Farmer Degree.

Paul Moore, the District Game Biologist from Jerseyville discussed wildlife and showed a movie on the life of the Bob White Quail. Sandie Oakes, Sue Bridgman, Pat-Like and Shirley Marsh sang two selections accompanied by Judy Orchard.

The meeting was closed with the FFA ritual.

To Check 9 Soybean Varieties In Morgan

Farm Adviser George Trull has made arrangements for another soybean variety test plot in Morgan county.

Last year eight different varieties were planted side by side on the James Johnson farm, near Waverly. The plot was inspected by interested farmers throughout the season and at harvest time the yield of each variety was determined.

This year's plot will be handled through the cooperation of Don (Dink) Ransdell, Jr., who farms near Rees Station.

The varieties to be planted and checked include Lindarin, a new type derived from a cross of Lincoln and Mandarin. It matures a day or so earlier than Harosoy, another popular early variety in this area.

Others to be planted, in order of maturity, are Harosoy, Hawk-eye, Adams, Lincoln, Ford, Shelby and Clark, plus a new, unnamed cross that is now designated H-H.

This will be the first year that Shelby will be seen in Morgan county. It appears to have all the good points of the very popular Clark, but matures about five days to a week earlier. Many persons feel that within the near future Shelby will be the predominant variety in this area.

A grafting demonstration, sponsored by the Illinois Nut Tree association, will be held Saturday, May 2. Anyone interested in attending is asked to meet at Illinois College at 1 p.m. From there the party will go to the Earl Cully farm eight miles southwest of Jacksonville.

Professor McDaniels, University of Illinois horticulturist, will be in charge of the demonstration.

Farmers of this area would welcome some warmer weather, but generally speaking all is OK, on the agriculture front as far as crop conditions and prospects are concerned.

The low soil temperature brought about by the hard winter and cooler than normal temperatures in March and April has held everything back to a certain extent. Blue grass pastures, particularly, are far behind. The grass is green and looks well, but it isn't growing much. Some old-time observers declared blue grass is later this spring than anytime they can recall.

Legume seedlings are doing well.

spread between choice cattle and less desirable grades this year than was experienced in 1958. He expects the heaviest marketings of hogs will be in June and July, but feels the market will stand up well.

Nearly 70 Morgan county livestock farmers attended the annual spring outlook meeting held at Farm Bureau hall last Tuesday.

The speakers were Don Walker of the U.I. animal science department and Ed Lamb, fieldman for the St. Louis Producers Livestock Marketing cooperative.

Both predicted farm prices for pork and beef during the coming six months.

"All of us were pleasantly surprised with the hog market," Lamb said. "A very large tonnage of pork was moved at favorable prices. True, prices went down considerably, which proves that the law of supply and demand is still in force. But the price did not go down to the $12-$14 levels that were so freely predicted six months earlier."

3 So are the oats, but not too many acres were planted. Wheat, which looked pretty peaked six weeks ago, is showing much improvement and wheat planted on rolling ground promises a good yield next July. Standing water definitely hurt some of the wheat planted on level land.

Plowing is ahead of schedule. It appears that the farmers of Morgan county will increase the corn plantings this season, maybe as much as 8-10% over that of last year, but nowhere as much as the 12-14% increase predicted for the midwest.

Fertilizer sales are running considerably ahead of last year, which was a record-making year. The use of soil insecticides to control soil-borne pests in corn and soybean fields will reach an all-time peak this spring.

Brave Little Rebel

By Loella Sloane Young

Synopsis: Emmy Lou, a little girl of days just after the Civil War is making a long train journey with an older woman, Mrs. Duncan.

Chapter 4: Train Picnic

Mrs. Duncan's face softened in a little smile, as she glanced down at Emmy Lou. Fondly she wound a yellow curl around her finger, and pushed stray wisps of hair from Emmy Lou's face.

For want of something better to do, Emmy Lou was counting the badly painted roses on the ceiling of the car. No longer was she the frightened little girl, who climbed aboard the train in

On that first day, the hours had crawled by slowly, as she watched the familiar Mississippi cotton fields slip past, bare now before the spring planting.

Nice Surprises

As noon approached and hunger grew, Emmy Lou remembered the lunch box which Annabel had given to her. Together they had opened it, exclaiming in wonder and delight at the surprises Annabel had so thoughtfully packed. There was fried chicken, all brown and crispy, tiny little sandwiches, spread with rich yellow butter, a big jar of cool lemonade, and paper-thin cookies, crusty with pecans to complete their lunch.

"It is just like a picnic," Emmy Lou said when she had finished eating. "I feel ever so much better now!"

"Yes," agreed her companion, "that was a fine lunch. We must write Annabel and tell her how much we enjoyed it."

"Yes, I promised her I'd write a letter," remembered Emmy Lou. "I'll do it as soon as I get to Lincoln."

From that time on Emmy Lou and Mrs. Duncan were good friends. It had been a long time since Mrs. Duncan had cared for a child so small, and she was pleased to see how each new sight and sound stimulated Emmy Lou to chatter on. Day after day had followed as their friendship grew. Mrs. Duncan, remembering something of the history and geography of the states through which they were passing, told many stories to pass

What Do You Think?

By Jerry Lawless

"I DON'T WANT TO"

Do we ever do what we don't want to do?

Throughout history, man has been forced to choose between alternatives. This is still true today.

Some of the alternatives are more pleasant and enticing, sometimes, than others. Yet, time and time again, man has chosen alternatives that, at the time when he chose them, would be hard or unpleasant or even painful to fulfill.

Did madmen, in these cases, carry out decisions that he didn't want to?

We Fool Ourselves

I think that the answer is definitely "No." Thinking of my own decisions, I cannot think of one that would be an exception.

There have been instances when I thought, at the time, that I was doing something that I didn't want to do. But I realize now that there had to be some reason to make me act the way I did, otherwise I wouldn't have.

As I see it, either of two things caused me to act. My ego, knowing the end results of the act would be beneficial, or God, thinking it wise for me to do so.

Have you ever done anything you didn't want to do—really?

Let's Go Birding

The Crazy Loon
By EMMA MAE LEONARD

Late last fall a few hikers at Lake Jacksonville were fortunate enough to hear the Loon's weird cry and almost shivered at the uncanny call. It is so unusual to hear a Loon at all in this part of the country that we gave you readers a story about this unexpected experience. However, the Loon left for its watery grounds before our article came to you.

The time is here again when you may be able to see the Loon even if you might not hear it unless you follow it to its breeding grounds on lakes at the northern edges of the United States. Finding or seeing this bird always brings an excitement to a group of birders. Why? Could it possibly be partly true because of legends or myths surrounding it?

Even in the Old Stone Age it seems that the Loon was regarded as a mystical bird. It has long been a bird of mystery as numerous legends about it show. Nearly all of these legends represent it as being partly human in one way or another. Myths turn men into Loons, or Loons into men.

Indian Stories
From the Aht Indians of British Columbia comes the story about two jealous fishermen who quarreled when they were out in their canoes. One fisherman cut his companion's tongue out and stole his catch of fish so that his victim could only cry like a Loon. This victim was transferred into a Loon; and his enemy, into a Crow.

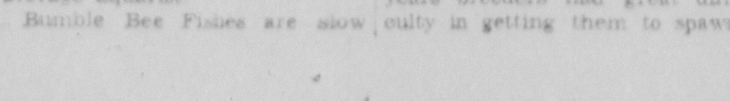

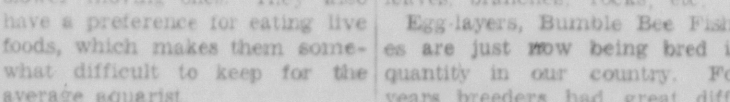

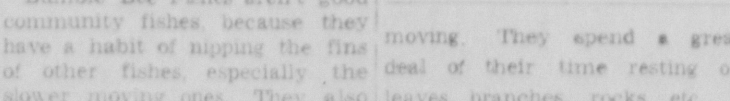

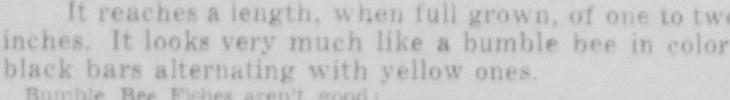

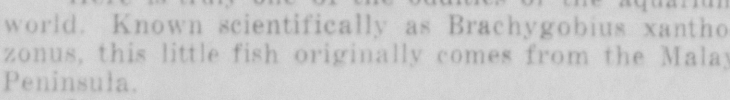

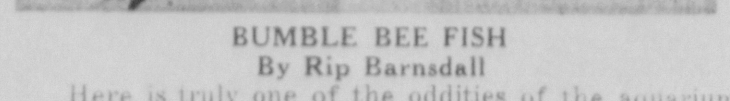

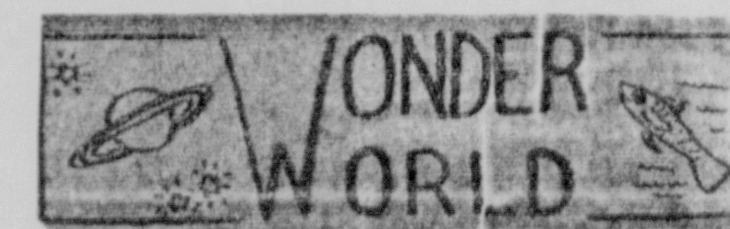

Among the Algonquin Indian myths is one that relates a story about Kikloak. This Indian hero so loved the Loon's weird cry that he would call him when they needed help. Later, these grateful Loons came, in the shape of men, to greet and serve him.

There are many stories by primitive men concerning these, to them, semi-human creatures. It would be natural that primitive men should think that the place was haunted by some strange semi-human creature when they heard those weird wailing sounds from the Loons far out on the lake at dusk or dawn. These Loons call certainly sound much like those of persons in distress, like sobs of suffering human beings.

Foretells Storms?
Another widespread belief throughout the high northern latitudes around the world connects the bird with rain; it is supposed to foretell storms. It was once considered a rain-maker and could call up storms. Even Roger Tory Peterson, in his "Field Guide to the Birds," when he describes the Loon's voice, states: "at night or before a storm, a ringing 'ha-oo-oo'."

Also according to Asian and American myths, the Loon helped with the work of creation, when the world was made, by bringing up mud from the primordial waters. It was once also believed to act as a guide to the Country of the Dead. In the Faeroe Islands, it is still believed that a Loon flying over is accompanying a departing soul.

If you should happen either on Lake Maunabo or on Lake Jacksonville to see a long low-slung dark bird with its sharp beak thrust up at an angle, look at it carefully. If you also see a checkered black-and-white back and a glossy black head and neck set off with a black-and-white band encircling its throat, you are undoubtedly looking at this curious bird, this "Crazy Loon."

Flying Model Planes

By Joseph A. Smith

GAS MODELS

Once, Mr. Pilot, you can skillfully handle a "U-Control" glider trainer in level flight, gentle and sharp climbs, and in dives, as well as a simple loop (this can be done by turning very fast—use full up rudder on the up half of the cycle, hold up rudder on the way down and level off controls as plane nears bottom of turn, then return to level flight you are ready for the real thing.

By reversing the control handle in your hands you should be able to fly the glider up-side-down too. Try sharpening up your control by putting two toy balloons on the top of two sticks, one 2 feet tall and one 3 feet tall. Now put a pin in the nose of the glider and try breaking the balloons. This isn't at all easy and is excellent practice.

As with any A size model don't try to fly in any amount of breeze. You will have too much difficulty controlling the model.

Now for real gas models. Of course you can choose either Free-Flight (a gas powered glider usually) or "U-Controlled" gas powered craft. Gas powered flying is not exactly inexpensive; this is not meant to discourage you, merely to suggest that you must be certain that you can afford the $7.50 or more that the newcomer has to invest in getting started in either field.

Fuel-Proof Glue

Some start with a ready built model, still must purchase a fairly easy Trainer gas-powered model, carefully assemble it (using fuel-proof glue only), paint and finish it (again with fuel-proof materials), install controls (in U-Control), and balance Most Carefully. This last is very important, and doubly so with Free-Flight models.

Time, care and patience are absolutely necessary elements in constructing such models. Generally speaking, a fair majority of Free-Flight models (as for example the Jetco Streak or Gullow Kiwi) use any good A-49 size miniature engine; larger models take the larger 09 or 19 class A motor. Naturally, the larger the craft and engine the higher the overall cost. Most Free-Flight enthusiasts learn with the smaller A-49 motor; for more details see your local library and numerous model airplane publications.

Get What You Pay For
"U-Control" craft are a bit different in that if you can afford to buy a somewhat larger motor you will find that it will well outlast a smaller engine (providing the flier doesn't try to plow up the ground with it), and the larger engine powered craft is less effected by those breezes blowing on flying days; not every day will be absolutely quiet! Also a good engine with the proper stunt tank can later be used to perform the stunt pattern. So you buy what one can afford.

While a A-49 motor is a fairly reasonably priced engine, perhaps a better buy would be a 19 or 19 class A engine. The latter might be a bit "hot" for a beginner's first engine, but it will fly quite a few very fine display type models, some medium sized Full Stunt craft, and several Free-Flight Endurance type models. Souped up 19s have flown at speeds exceeding 100 MPH!

With The Swimmers

The F. & B. Trainer and P.T. Trainer (also by F. & B.) both require class A-19 engines) are very good "First" models and trainers. An even simpler "First Gas Model" for the newcomer is the scientific "Secret Weapon" kit for .009 to 14 class A motors; yes, it flies.

Besides the engine and finished aircraft you will need a "U-control" handle, all necessary control parts (Bellcrank, control-horn, and control wire), a pair of braided lead-out wires (placed from bellcrank along wing to snaps fastened away from outer edge of wing), a spool of control wire of suitable size for the engine used, two 6-volt lantern batteries, battery wires and clips, spare props, glue, and the usual knife etc.

Don't attempt to fly on a windy day, keep lines tight always and straight, and have some spare props along. Good luck!

PLASMA JET

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

A plasma jet is a rocket which would launch a space ship in outer space with a stream of plasma ejected by a strong electric field.

The most detailed plan of a Plasma Jet so far published was made by Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger, of the Redstone Arsenal, in 1956. Dr. Stuhlinger's plans provide for a solar mirror to provide the electricity, but since the invention of the plasma thermocouple a more reliable atomic power plant can be used to power this motor.

Atomic power is more reliable than solar power because solar power won't work at great distances from the sun or in shadows. Also, as we mentioned last time, a plasma thermocouple reactor might be built to weigh less than the equipment needed for a solar power plant.

Dr. Stuhlinger's plasma jet is enclosed in a ceramic (pottery) housing to prevent the heat of the motor from destroying itself. Cesium or Rubidium gas is pumped into this chamber where it strikes a grid of incandescent (shining like an electric light bulb) platinum.

The platinum grid absorbs the outermost of the electrons which revolve around the center (nucleus) of the Cesium atom like planets in a miniature solar system. This causes the Cesium to have the same type electrical charge as the Platinum.

There are two types of electrical charges—positive and negative. Negatively charged things have too many electrons and positively charged things have too few.

Next we'll tell you about HOW PLASMA JETS GO.

VERSATILE "BRAINS"

EATONTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Electronic data processing machines at the Signal Corps' research and development laboratories here have been given nicknames.

One is called "the dealer" and is a whiz at dealing, playing and winning blackjack.

Another computer is dubbed "the wise guy." Technicians have fixed it up so that, if a man is slow in working its keyboard, it sends this message: "If you don't press my button soon, I'll start swearing."

Fisheries of Washington are exceeded only by those of California and Massachusetts in quantity and value of catch.

The lobster is a closer relation of the spider than of fish.

BIRTHDAY PARADE

Mary Ann Lovekamp and Marilyn Jean Lovekamp (above) give us a "double-header" start on our Birthday Parade today with their twin birthdays!

Mary Ann and Marilyn Jean are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lovekamp of Arenalville. The twins were 8 years old April 20.

her sixth Birthday April 30. So our April Birthday Parade ends right on the last day of this month.

Johnny Anthony's Party
ROODHOUSE—Mrs. Floyd Anthony, Sr., served as hostess at a birthday party held during the recreation period in Miss Hopkin's third grade, Washington school, Tuesday afternoon, celebrating the 9th anniversary of her son, Johnny Anthony.

Refreshments of ice cream in Dixie cups were served to all. For favors, the children were presented with space satellites and jacks set purses with whistles.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
To march in the BIRTHDAY PARADE, just send your name, address, age and birthday—with a snapshot if you have one—to the Jacksonville Junior Journal-Courier two or more weeks before your birthday. (If you're late, send your name in anyway—better late than never, you know!) Photos may be called for as soon as they are printed.

If you have a party, write and tell us about that later.

Here is Gayle Erixon with a gay smile to brighten our parade.

Gayle, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Erixon of 1809 South East St., was 4 years old April 22.

Sandra Lou Hepworth, of Winchester, is 8 years old right today, April 26!

Christie M. Hepworth, of Winchester, toddles along next in honor of the first Birthday, coming April 31.

Sheryl Lynne Mason, (above) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Mason of Hardin, is justly excited over her lovely Birthday cake with its four glowing candles. Tomorrow, she should be even more excited for then, April 27, she will have five candles on her cake.

Now that you still have your dime, take a piece of paper say a foot square (or less) and cut a hole in the center of it the size of a dime. Give a volunteer a nickel and the paper without the hole; challenge him to work the coin through the hole without touching the coin once put on the paper.

When he fails, you can do it by folding the paper through the center of the hole; you'll find that now you can work it through the hole. With practice it's possible to work a quarter through the little hole.

Practice makes perfect, so again I say practice each trick before you perform it.

The Bermudas are the oldest self-governing colony still under the British flag.

Pamela Sue Carman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Carman of 205 Pine.

Pamela Joyce Nergenah of Chapin will celebrate her sixth Birthday April 30. So our April Birthday Parade ends right on the last day of this month.

The charter members attending were Clyde and Kathryn McAllister, Elsie Leonhard Becker, Emma Bushnell, Bertha Rice and Edward Brockhouse, now of Beardstown, having transferred to Goodwin Lodge there in 1914. Lena Meier, also a charter member, was unable to attend because of illness. Of these, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Meier, Mrs. Rice and Mr. Brockhouse have had continuous membership. There are other charter members in Meredosia who no longer belong to the lodge.

The guests were from Dawn Lodge, Bluffs, No. 169; Goodwin of Beardstown, No. 192; Idelle, Versailles, No. 17; Francis Watson of Chapin, No. 539; and Jacksonville, No. 13. The Jacksonville delegation included Mrs. Ella Phillips who helped institute the Meredosia Lodge and was on the degree staff.

Red Roses

Red roses were given to the charter members and sent to those who were ill. Mrs. Charles Smith baked and decorated the anniversary cake.

Dora Dawson and Betty Gregory began the program, singing "April Showers" with piano accompaniment by Mrs. James Major. Everyone sang "Happy Anniversary," followed by a group of songs by the Lidgard sisters. Mrs. John Nortrup read a history of the lodge. A comedy skit, "Lucinda's Diet," was presented by Mrs. Smith, Dorothy VanDeventer and Edythe Dawson. Mrs. Dawson and Mrs. Gregory sang "Till the End of Time," to conclude the program.

Mrs. Nortrup's history of the lodge began with an article from the Meredosia Budget of March 4, 1909, telling of the institution and organization of the group:

Her shoulder length veil was held secure with a cap of seed pearls. Attendants to the couple were Shelia Kenny of Brooklyn, New York, and Dennis Bush of Middleburg, Michigan.

Ushering at the wedding were Paul Downey, brother of the bride, and Ronald Peterson.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held at the Tropical Room of Orange Court Hotel at Orlando.

Garden Club's Annual Luncheon At First Baptist Church Hall

At the First Baptist church Fellowship Hall Miss Charlotte Sieber, president of the Morgan County Garden club, extended greetings to a capacity membership of the Garden club. The occasion was the annual luncheon of the club, and the decorating committee, in charge of Mrs. Roy Hopper as chairman, and her entire committee accepted compliments. The rainbow theme was carried out in the colors used on the various tables.

The red table was in charge of Mrs. Eugene Dodswordth assisted by Misses Ruby and Anna Mann and Mrs. Minnie Muntman. They used the red carnations with flowering quince. An orange-colored table was decorated by Mrs. Dwight Green assisted by Mrs. Ira Story and Mrs. Bruce Howard; the yellow table by Mrs. Alvin Middendorf and Miss Rose Ranson; the blue by Mrs. Roy Baker assisted by Mrs. Wynan Sooy; the green by Mrs. Frank Crawley and Mrs. Len Magill; the violet by Mrs. Harold Stewart, Mrs. Don Ransdall, Mrs. Ogle Love; and the speakers' table, very lovely in gold and white, was decorated by Mrs. Vernon Scholfield, Mrs. Clifford Hill, Mrs. George Taylor and Mrs. James Dunlap. Two honorary members of the decorating committee, Mrs. Margaret Perry and Mrs. Henry Frische, were unable to attend.

Daffodils, jonquils, carnations in red, carnations with lavender edges and green edges, blue corn flowers, African violets, purple and white hyacinths and creamy white calla lilies were the flowers used on the various tables.

A delicious creamed chicken luncheon was served and rainbow colors were carried out in the menu with its parsleyed potatoes, breads and glazed carrots with rainbow sherbet and floral decorated cookies. The lunch was prepared and served by the Serv. League of the First Baptist church with Mrs. Earl Davis as chairman. The women who served were members of the World Wide Guild of the church and were sponsored by Mrs. Archie Brownell. They carried out the rainbow colors in their dresses and aprons. Preceding the luncheon Mrs. Gerald Miller pronounced the invocation.

Each table was decorated the same with the exception of the color.

color, having a large centerpiece, with one at each end, and two lighted tapers of the predominant color. There were several sets of miniature Japanese ladies dressed in native costume. The hair-dos were crocheted of heavy black yarn by Mrs. Dodswordth. They all carried miniature parasols and lent an enchanting look to the tables. The little dolls on the speakers' table were in white, with gold thread hair and white lace dolly parasols over pink.

During the luncheon hour Mrs. Harold Wessler was at the piano and Robert Wegehoff at the organ. They presented several selections that were greatly enjoyed. After the lunch Mrs. Wendell Brackett, music chairman for the day, presented them in a contribution of lovely musical duets including such songs as "The Holy City," "Meditation" by Massenet, and closing with the "Hallelujah" chorus.

Preceding the luncheon, Miss Sieber called upon Mrs. Vernon Scholfield to lead in the pledge and Mrs. Lester Reid to lead in saying the club prayer.

During a short business session Miss Sieber called upon Mrs. Muntman for the reading of the minutes of the last meeting and Mrs. Joy Goin for the treasurer's report. Miss Fern Haigh, chairman of ticket committee for the coming Flower Show, announced that she had tickets for all members to sell and to see her for their allotment. Miss Sieber called upon Mrs. Harry Killam, chairman of the nominating committee, with reference to two offices to be filled in the fall. Mrs. Killam announced the names of Mrs. Roy Hopper had been presented for president and Mrs. George Taylor as recording secretary. A vote was taken and unanimously Mrs. Hopper and Mrs. Taylor were elected.

Mrs. Donald Littler, program chairman, presented Mrs. Alvalee McCarthy, who gave a most interesting talk, accompanied with colored slides, on her recent trip to South America. She showed many of the lovely buildings and schools and called attention to the way these countries use flowers in beautifying their surroundings. Flower beds were seen everywhere and no one thought once of molesting them because to these people flowers are a part of living and community.

Mrs. McCarthy wore a beautiful dress of white hand-woven material with a wide border of gold thread, which she said was typical of the material woven by women in some of these countries.

The luncheon committee was in charge of Mrs. Albert Potter as chairman assisted by Mrs. Harry Killam, co-chairman; Mrs. Helen Douglas, Mrs. Harold Hamel, Mrs. Maude Huggert, Mrs. Roscoe Mawson, Mrs. Georgia Ranson and Mrs. Leon Stewart.

PRE-WAR PLAY RETURNS
NEW YORK (AP)—The melodic "Cabin in the Sky" of Broadway's 1940 theater season, is being prepared for return next fall.
St. John Terrell, impresario of summertime music shows, plans to use the tent circuit in New Jersey, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts for tryout tour.
The show ran 127 performances in its original version with Ethel Waters starred, but Terrell feels that World War II prevented it from having greater success, and that now is the time for revival.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

More and more in recent years the big eye has taken over a lot of the entertainment time in our modern homes. Folks have almost forgotten what living was like before TV started bringing in the outside world. Now we hear there are several companies promoting kitchen stores with built-in TV. That is carrying television recipes right to the customers with nothing but a whistling tea-kettle between them. It ought to make the kitchen stove more appealing, even though the only thing being grilled is a suspect in "Perry Mason". However, it's going to be a rough session when the kitchen engineer is trying to whip up a batch of popovers and watch Portia facing life with an attack of hysterics. It's bound to bring up a few burning questions.

A Chicago man who owed no income taxes sent in $10 to help build "a bigger and better H-Bomb". He hasn't much money, but he's determined to get a bang out of it. If you're in the market for a good, clean used car and you're determined to get full value for your money we suggest that you look over our stock of "Best Buys" and test drive the car that appeals to you. It will carry a dependable guarantee and will be priced to your advantage. Come in soon. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main. Phone CH 5-4333.

BLASTOFF!—No sight is more significant in this period in history than the moment one of our tremendous rockets bids earth goodbye for a trip into space. Slowly, almost ponderously, it rises—but displaying at the same time the unleashed power that is a promise of the hundreds-of-miles-an-hour speeds which will come as the journey progresses. This photo catches the magnificence of the scene as a Titan breaks for the sky at Cape Canaveral, Fla., our principal missile base.

With The Girl Scouts

Twenty-eight Girl Scout leaders took advantage of a two-day outdoor training session conducted this week by Mrs. Darrell Roegge, assisted by Mrs. Robert Hartman, Executive Director. This training will enable the leaders to guide their troops in their outdoor activities as well as in their camping plans. Many troops will be having hikes and cook-outs during the coming days in addition to their camping trips.

On Thursday the training session was held at the Girl Scout office with 26 attending. A movie, "Camp Time Any Time," was shown and various outdoor skills such as firebuilding, cooking and lashing were demonstrated. Participants brought sack lunches and coffee was served.

The entire group spent all day Friday at Camp Shagbark on Lake Jacksonville where the various skills demonstrated the day before were put into actual practice.

Among the various menus planned, cooked and served by the various patrols at Camp Shagbark Friday were: stew, tuna casserole with biscuits baked in a Dutch oven; fish and fried potatoes cooked over a trench fire; apples baked in foil; applesauce and gingerbread baked in a Dutch oven and served with cream; also potatoes baked in foil. This food was accompanied by green salads and carrot and celery sticks and other relishes.

Confesses To Burglaries In Jerseyville

JERSEYVILLE—Dwight Whitlock, polygraph operator from the Illinois Bureau of Criminal Identification of Springfield, came to Jerseyville Wednesday to assist local officials in quizzing suspects in recent violations in the Jersey county area.

Chief of Police H. H. Blackorby Jr. reported Thursday that a written confession regarding both recent burglaries at the Shell service station in this city had been obtained from C. H. Dunse, who previously had been charged with the second burglary of the place last Saturday morning.

Dunse, following his arrest on charges of having committed the second burglary, denied any connection with the first burglary of the station earlier in the month. Blackorby reported that Dunse changed his statement and admitted having broken into the Shell service station on both occasions.

He also admitted the burglary of a farm house in the Godfrey vicinity, the residence of Walter Lammy. The burglary there was a day time affair and something like 30 dollars was obtained. He also admitted having cashed a check taken in the first burglary at the Shell service station at a service station in the Alton vicinity.

A camp site will be chosen and a permanent fireplace will be built there. One tent was purchased for trial and, if satisfactory, others like it will be secured.

THE STORY: Jim Furlong has found more allies to his revenge war against the powerful Empire ranch. The latest is Clay Dawson, who had lost a previous bout with Empire.

XVII
A hushed fury came into Dawson's voice as he added, "I saw Mac's father die with an Empire slug in his belly. And later, back in Texas, I saw his mother die of a broken heart. She lost everything when Empire killed Jim Gillum—her husband, her home that had been mortgaged, and her health. Mac was just a boy at that time. But he's never forgotten what Empire did, and neither have I."

"Then that's why Mac came here—to finish a cabin his father had started?"
Dawson nodded. "And to even the score with Empire. I was in favor of killing Pardee in that holdup and then highlighting out of Warrior Basin. But Mac wouldn't have it. He said it had to be done his way, or not at all."

Presently, helping Furlong put things in order, Dawson said, "I've spent a month scouting Empire from stem to stern. I know where Pardee's lieutenants are, where he'll gather the beef and hold it when they round up. I know where to jump his freight outfits, and how to bust his irrigation system."

"So?" Furlong prompted, absorbing this information and balancing it against his own plan for personal retaliation.
"Mac says that if you run the deal there'll be others joining us," Dawson explained. "He says you've got good friends, like Ed Overmire and Frank Peiky."

"Wouldn't count on them," Furlong disagreed. "They're family men. A thing like this could get awful rank, and last a long time."

"Suppose. But even if it was just us three—you and me and

The sun was straight up when Furlong awoke. It took him a little time to comprehend that he had slept so long, for it seemed like only a few minutes. Stretching now, he saw Dawson crouched behind a clump of buckbrush with his rifle beside him. "It's way past 10 o'clock," Furlong said.

Without turning, Dawson announced softly, "We got company." Alert at once, Furlong leached for his rifle and asked, "How many?"

"Two close by, others off a ways, working the brush," Furlong explained. "Over beside Dawson and glimpsed a rider sitting his horse a hundred yards south of the canyon's mouth. "Shorty Sublette," he said, and now observed another rider's head and shoulders showing above brush beyond Sublette. Farther south and a trifle west, it was more, moving slowly.

"Why didn't you wake me up?" Dawson shrugged. His right cheek was bulged by a chaw of tobacco; he spat an amber stream into the dust and said cheerfully, "One gun up here could stand 'em off for a week."

The way he said it, as if anticipating attack and welcoming it, gave Furlong a good feeling. Here was a tough one; tough as any member of Empire's headquarters crew, including Cleo Veto. Dawson wasn't one to dodge trouble, or turn the other cheek. Grinning, Furlong said, "For a man that's had no sleep you look real lively."

"I got an itch that keeps me lively," Dawson said. "A 10-year itch."

Easing along the bench on hands and knees, Furlong gained the new vantage point—a brush-fringed ledge from which he could see the lower end of Bent Elbow Canyon. Observing no movement, he wondered if the rider had gone back; then it occurred to him that he might be prowling the canyon's west wall and thus be above them. . . . One ride wouldn't hold this spot then. Nor would two.

Dawson turned and peered up there for a moment and shook his head. . . .

In this moment, the memory of his burning cabin came back with all its bitter hatred and frustration. Furlong understood why Clay Dawson would anticipate attack and welcome it; why he had an itch for action. Those searching riders were the symbol of Empire's domination—the tools of its destructive power. But even as that realization came to him, Furlong heard the remote sound of an approaching horse somewhere below him; moments later he saw a rider he identified as Farley Breen, trotting toward the canyon's entrance.

Afterward, watching Empire's skirmish line proceed slowly westward, Furlong said, "We foxed 'em."

And he understood why Clay Dawson muttered, "Sort of wish they'd found us."
